Third Party Coming
White Collar Boys
3 Good Cartoons
Highly Moral Finance

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1920.)

There is no doubt that the country is to see a third party. Labor threatens it, prohibition hints at it, and millions of dissatisfied citizens, as yet not heard from, want it.

In this third party movement look out for the "white collar boys."

They are the men, not organized, that used to take each his little torch in hand and join the Republican torchlight processions every four years.

But the price of white collars has gone up, and the pay of the "white collar boy" has stayed down.

His rent is up, his food is up. A good pair of shoes cost as much as he can earn in a week.

He has been forced to realize that there is some intelligence in the "flannel shirt boys" that have had their unions and worked together.

The "white collar boys" may decide to form their first union in a third party this fall. If they do, it will be a big party.

To know what is happening in distant parts of the world, watch the price of silver gradually dropping. In the war its price crawled upward, and Mr. Bryan, like Job's war horse, pawed in the valley and said, "Ha, Ha." Now silver's price is crawling down, more rapidly than it crawled up. While war was on, Europe paid big bills to Asia. Asia's money is silver.

War is over, silver drops. This means panic in China, India and Japan.

Panic in those places has its meaning for us.

Watch the prices of silver for financial troubles in Asia, while you watch the "white collar boys" for political troubles in America.

The Literary Digest reprints three cartoons, excellently chosen, from Japanese newspapers.

The Osaka Puck, under the heading "Japan's Job," shows a gigantic bear, freed from its chains, threatening a little Japanese, sheltering himself behind a rock. Below is written: "The bear is set free and Japan must fight it single-handed."

Another cartoon from the Tokio Jiji shows a Japanese soldier looking worried while the American troops march away. The line underneath is "Alone in Siberia." Below that line, this: "Japan's helpless situation on the withdrawal of the American troops."

The third cartoon shows Japan frozen in the ice. The title of the cartoon is, "When the Mercury Went Down." The lines below that are "National feeling on the Siberian problem is colder than the Siberian air," and the frozen soldier is inscribed, "More Troops Wanted."

These are good cartoons for American newspapers to reprint. Learn from them that even though Japan expected us to take care of the Russian bear while she grabbed Siberian territory, and England expected us to police the world in general while she digested German colonies, it is on the whole fortunate for us that we haven't that Russian bear on hand, and that Uncle Sam did not put his foot in the Peace League trap.

Did you hear about the sweet moral outbreak in American financial circles? You know that "big interests" in the United States managed to send American soldiers into Russia. And when the soldiers were brought back by public opinion the same interests have managed to prevent any American trade with Russia or American recognition of Lenin's Government. It was supposed that American financiers, who had speedily bought Russian bonds from the Czar when everyone but themselves knew that the Czar was doomed, hated Lenin because he repudiated those bonds and told the buyers to apply to the Czar for payment.

But that, it seems, is all wrong. These super-conscientious bond buyers say that they do not want to see this country do any business with Russia "Because any money that Russia would pay us is stolen money, stolen by the revolutionary Russian Government from the old regime."

Isn't that touching? Isn't that convincing?

Where did the old regime get the money? It exploited two hundred million miserable creatures, kept the peasants in a condition of servitude that was worse than serfdom, or even slavery.

The present government of Russia disposed of the Czar, then took over the country, as the French and the United States people took over their countries after changing governments by revolution. The present Russian Government did not steal. It "seized," and there is a difference. In any case, whatever it took from the Czar, he had taken from the people. They simply took back their own. We did not refuse to trade with France, although the French revolution took the land from the nobles and divided it among six million peasant land owners.

A Republican newspaper says: "It was the Republican Senators who kept General Wood out of the White House." A mistake. Ivory soap kept General Wood out of the White House and floated him up Salt Creek.

DARTMOUTH STUDENT CONFESSES MURDER

HAD CLEAR RAIL, SAYS ENGINEER

Crushed and Scalded, Driver of Local Declares Express Had No Flag Out

Worcester, June 16.—Lying on a cot in Ward B at the City Hospital, Engineer Archie J. Card, of No. 215 River street, Cambridge, today denied that he was in any way to blame for the Boston & Albany Railroad collision near Lake Park, in which more than fifty persons were injured.

Card's legs are crushed and his face and upper body are masses of burns. He spoke with difficulty.

Card's version of the accident and the events leading up to it follows:

"I can't say whether or not I left Worcester on schedule time. I do know I was close behind No. 18 (the Albany express). At the home tower, No. 26, the first after leaving the Union Depot, I lost about three minutes waiting for the block to clear. This put me about five minutes behind the express.

"The second block showed yellow, permitting me to run into the third. The third showed green, and I went on to the fourth, which, as I approached the bend, I could see was green and gave me a clear iron.

"From the steeple to the fourth block, where the accident occurred, is all down grade, and I had been running with my brakes on. As was my custom, I released them when I saw the fourth block show green.

"When on the bend I saw No. 18 no more than a hundred yards ahead

Mother of Radcliffe Girl Suicide Ill

Miss Matilda A. Ward, Radcliffe girl who hanged herself because she could not return for graduation.

Mrs. Nahum Ward, mother of Matilda Ward, the Radcliffe student who committed suicide at Falmouth, Me., said today the family believed the young woman was prompted to take her life because she was despondent over her inability to participate in the graduation exercises with her classmates following a nervous breakdown due to overstudy.

At their home, No. 8 Craigie Circle, Cambridge, the mother, herself ill as a result of the tragedy, declared recent reports from Falmouth had led the family to believe that the girl was improving in health, and while they had not expected her to be able to attend the exercises, they felt certain her vacation would result in a complete recovery.

Miss Ward, who was a member of the class of 1920, was visiting the home of Martin Iverson in Falmouth.

Yesterday afternoon she went for a walk in the woods with a boy, six years of age, returned, and then started off alone. Upon her failure to return, a party of thirty men was organized for search. The body of the girl was found hanging from a tree, about a mile from the Iverson home.

"While my daughter had taken her examinations and was to graduate, she must have become despondent over being unable to attend the exercises Friday," said Mrs. Ward today.

"She had not planned to attend the exercises, and so the announcement of her death was a dreadful surprise, as we all believed from reports we had received from Falmouth that she was improving steadily."

MORE CLERKS DRAFTED TO RECEIVE POLL TAXES

With six additional clerks, all that could be obtained from the other city departments, the city collector's office continued today to dispose of large numbers of poll taxpayers in the collector's office in the annex, the election department on the annex first floor and the aldermanic chamber on the second floor of City Hall. About 20,000 poll taxes for 1920 have been paid to date.

MADDENED WHEN LOVE IS LOST

Fires Three Shots at Woman as She Tries to Take the Revolver

Taunton, June 16.—Because Mrs. Annie Dunn, forty-two, a divorcee, who ran a lodging house in which he lived at No. 196 High street, failed to return his affection, Finley P. Jack, thirty, a plumber, attempted to murder the woman and killed himself today.

He fired four shots, three of them striking Mrs. Dunn. The fourth was fired into his own breast. Mrs. Dunn, with bullet wounds in the right wrist and hand, the right breast and the back, is on the danger list at the Morton Hospital.

Jack's father, James Jack, committed suicide here twenty years ago. Jack had roomed at Mrs. Dunn's house about five years, and for some time past had paid her ardent court, she failed to reciprocate his attentions. Last night he followed her around the streets. This morning they had words regarding his actions. Jack left the house.

He returned shortly after and entered Mrs. Dunn's room, where she and her eleven-year-old nephew, William Fleming, were talking.

"Throw up your hands!" was all he said.

Mrs. Dunn rushed at him and struggled for possession of the revolver. Jack fired three shots into the woman's body, and as she fell and the boy ran screaming to the street, turned the gun on himself.

When the police arrived Jack was dead.

BURRILL WILL RUN FOR LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

Charles L. Burrill, treasurer and receiver-general of Massachusetts for five years, who today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, said:

"As a loyal son of Massachusetts, it was my privilege to support Governor Coolidge throughout the Republican convention which ended in his unanimous nomination for the vice-presidency. If the citizens of the Commonwealth will place me upon the ticket with him, I shall deem it the proudest honor of my life."

Logan on Board to Care for Graves

Walter A. Robinson of Arlington, Colonel Edward L. Logan and Ansel E. Zatterana of Boston were named by Governor Coolidge today as a commission to ascertain the most appropriate methods of caring for the graves of Americans dead in foreign countries.

Robinson will act as chairman of the board, which was chosen by authority of a recent act of the Legislature.

Threaten to Bolt on Wilson's League

Democratic leaders in New England are distinctly worried by the threat of the rank-and-file to flock to a third party standard unless the League of Nations is repudiated at San Francisco.

The extent of this uprising is seen in the almost unanimous opposition to the league shown by those questioned in the Boston American canvass of the six New England States.

Those people who object to the league and will bolt the ticket if it is accepted are not Federal office holders and will not make much noise. In the Democratic national convention. But they make up the voting strength of the party in this section, which is what counts in the end.

What Democrats think of the League of Nations and the proper disposition of it may be seen in the following statements:

WILLIAM CLARKE, former Mayor of Newport, R. I.—I am opposed to the league in present form. I would like to see the National Democratic

SUGAR PROFIT CASES CONTINUED TO JUNE 30

FEARS U. S. AID FOR IRELAND

Duke of Northumberland Warns Britain That Erin May Be Lost to Empire

London, June 16. — Londonderry, Ireland, was in the grip of a reign of terror all night, said a dispatch to the Evening News today. Firing was continuous in the streets from midnight till 2 a. m. The trouble began when ex-soldiers ambushed a national excursion party.

London, June 16.—"The longer the Irish rebellion remains unsubdued the more will American political parties make capital out of it. American interference is a real danger," said the Duke of Northumberland, one of the biggest owners of coal-bearing lands in Great Britain, an ardent imperialist and a keen student of British politics.

His views may be regarded as representative of those of the British nobility. He continued:

"The conspicuous loss of Ireland in this crisis can be prevented only by some 1,000,000 Ulsterites (in North Ireland Province) and we seem to be doing our best to estrange them. The North of Ireland may very shortly become our sole base for military operations.

"The strategic position of Ireland in regard to Great Britain is precisely the same as the strategic position of Great Britain in regard to Northern Europe.

"Owing to the geographical position of these islands, lying as they do across the sea routes which lead to the Atlantic from Northern France, Holland, Germany, Scandinavia and Northern Russia, the commerce of these countries is at our mercy.

"That is why we have had to fight, in the past Holland, France and Germany for supremacy of the seas. It is that geographical position which is responsible for the formation of our empire. Our immense influence on the history of the world and the fact that our intervention in a European war has always proved decisive.

"Every disadvantage with which Western Europe suffered from the geographical position of these islands, Great Britain would suffer from the position of Ireland were it in other hands than our own. It lies across all our means of egress into the Atlantic.

"I think it would be advisable to drop the present home rule bill and restore order in Ireland at once."

HADDOCK AND COD DROP TO 2½ CENTS

Prices tumbled to a new low level at the fish pier today. Haddock and small cod sold down to 2½ cents a pound from the vessels and large cod for 4 to 4½ cents. Receipts were fresh, but the fresh fish market said that the demand had reached such a low ebb that they did not care to buy, and most of the fish that came in will go to curing houses or to the freezers. Receipts of mackerel continued light and the price advanced from 8¾ to 9 cents a pound.

Mayor's Secretary George Canty promised to tell the mayor about it.

SENIOR IS KILLED DURING ROW

Hanover, N. H., June 16.—Henry E. Maroney of West Medford, Mass., former service man and Dartmouth senior, was murdered in his rooms in the Theta Delta Chi fraternity house today, a bullet going through his heart.

Robert T. Meads of La range, Ill., a junior, was arrested on the charge of murder at Franklin, N. H., and admitted the shooting, but said that he fired in self-defence.

Meads, who said he had been drinking, surrendered an automatic pistol to Deputy Sheriff Claude M. Murray of Franklin, who captured him on a train bound for Boston.

The accused murderer told the sheriff, in the county jail at Franklin that the quarrel arose over a quart bottle of whiskey, which he claimed had been taken away from him by a number of students, including Maroney. Meads said he went after the whiskey, found Maroney in his room, quarrelled with him and fired in self-defence.

This story differed in several essentials from that told by the college authorities, who claimed that the tragedy was the second attempt made by Meads to shoot Maroney.

According to Superintendent of Buildings E. F. Clark, a party of students, including Maroney, who had been sitting up reviewing studies in preparation for an examination, visited Meads' room in Massachusetts Hall.

FOLLOWED MARONEY.

The junior is said to have resented this intrusion, and fired at Maroney. Superintendent Clark said that the students regarded the pistol shooting as mock dramatics and left the room. Subsequently, according to the superintendent, Meads followed Maroney to the latter's room in the fraternity house.

H. W. Whittaker of Somerville, who was in an adjoining room, heard the sound of a shot, and rushing into Maroney's room found him dead on the floor. Meade Maroney were said to have had difficulties over money matters.

Price of Dogs Drops Under Paris Tax

Paris, June 16.—Hundreds of dog fanciers have been brought to the verge of financial ruin by the threatened quadrupled tax on dogs, and there is even a probability that the "canine capitals" of the world may be transferred from Paris, where it has been for more than a century, to Brussels or Antwerp.

The first consequence of the tax has been the cut in the prices for all but the most luxurious specimens, even though the measure has yet to be approved by the Senate. The dog exposition, which was held at the Tuileries Gardens, was noteworthy for the moderate prices charged.

Good specimens of Pomeranians could be purchased for $30, peasant exchange, while retrievers, whippets and stag-hounds, formerly selling for $150 to $5,000, could be had for a maximum of $600.

Chief Officer Moran of Long Island Exiled and Position Abolished

Chief Officer Arthur P. Moran of the male almshouse at Long Island, sometimes called Dr. Donlan's orderly," followed his chief into official exile today when his position was abolished by the infirmary trustees.

Chairman O'Brien denied that this is the first step in an effort by the trustees to rid the island of the officers who served under Dr. Donlan and who gave testimony favorable to him during the removal proceedings.

Moran, who has held the position since July, 1916, was called the "hard boiled Smith" of the island by the inmates. He was paid $1,000.

A fight on Moran's part to retain his position is expected. Under civil service regulations he can protest the abolition of his position and demand a hearing.

PALMER STANDS BY GALLAGHER

Silence After Hearing Boston Bar Protest Indicates His Refusal to Act

Washington, June 16—"Nothing transpired which would be of interest for publication."

This was the message sent out to newspaper correspondents by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, after he had been visited by a delegation of the Boston Bar Association who strongly protested against the attorney general's appointment of Daniel J. Gallagher to be district attorney for the Boston District.

John Lowell and Mr. Shurtleff, representing the Bar Association, are understood to have asked that the attorney general withdraw his appointment of Gallagher. They pointed out to Palmer that public indignation in Boston ran high as a result of Gallagher's appointment and declared to the attorney general that the charge was being openly made that the appointment was in exchange for political backing at the San Francisco convention.

No comment other than that they had "protested to the limit" against the Gallagher appointment could be elicited from the delegation and efforts to get at the attorney-general were equally unavailing. His message to the newspaper men, whom he refused to see, shutting off further attempts at inquiry.

$700,000 FIRE IN ROCKLAND, ME.

Conflagration Starts in Garage; Wipes Out Heart of Business Section

Rockland, Me., June 16—Fire swept the heart of the business section of this city today, levelling four of the largest business blocks and causing a damage estimated at $700,000.

The Central Garage, in which were 150 automobiles; the Berry, Willoughby and Globe blocks; a livery stable and carriage shop were burned flat before the flames were brought under control. It is estimated that about two-thirds of the loss is covered by insurance.

Fire started in the machine shop of the Central Garage at 3 a. m. The high wind, a force, unable to stem flames, called for help from Camden, Rockport and the town of Emerson, which responded. Before the supporting forces could be organized, the fire had wiped out the heart of the city in the area bounded by Main and Winter streets.

About half a dozen frame dwellings were also destroyed.

Every building affected, with the exception of the Empire Theatre, was a total loss.

The garage in the building owned by the C. H. Berry Trust, and occupied by George H. Simmons, fell first. The loss on this building is set at $60,000 and the 150 automobiles destroyed at $225,000.

The only casualty reported was an injury to Charles H. Morey, proprietor of a dry goods store, who attempted to save some of his stock, and was caught in the building when the brick block next to it crashed in. He received a bad scalp wound and was assisted out by two policemen who had ventured with him into the building.

The Berry block, owned by Mrs. Charles H. Berry, was valued at $35,000. The Willoughby block, owned by Miss Carrie A. Barnard, is valued at $75,000. Green Brothers' variety store in this block suffered a loss of $60,000. The loss on the Globe block is estimated at $15,000. In this block is a lodging house, but the occupants, warned by the police, were able to get out in time and save their personal belongings.

J. WESTON ALLEN NOT TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Declaring that the office of State Attorney-General was not to be lightly held, and that he had not assumed it in order to seek political preferment, Attorney-General J. Weston Allen today announced that he was not a candidate for Governor. The statement read in part:

"To my mind there would be an impropriety in entering a political contest for another office when I have not completed my first year's service. My papers for renomination were in circulation when I was at the convention and the new direction which has come to our great Governor in no way alters our purpose to continue my services in my present position if I am again honored with election."

Committee of 48 Announces Proposals for Convention Next Month

New York, June 16.—Following, in part, is a statement issued by the executive committee of the Committee of Forty-Eight:

In preparation for its national convention at Chicago, July 10, which will put a new party in the field, the executive committee of the Committee of Forty-Eight received tabulated reports from a nation-wide questionnaire.

"Replies from all the forty-eight States overwhelmingly favored government ownership of transportation and national resources.

"They favored the taxation of idle land; labor's effort to share in the management of industry, and the complete restoration of free speech, press and assembly.

G. O. P. Progressives Form Independent Organization

Chicago, June 16 — Republican party leaders are experiencing "morning after" sensations as a result of their discovery of third party clouds of most ominous character darkening the political sky which had settled so roseate during the jollification of the Harding-Coolidge nomination.

In the conclave of former Progressives in which twenty-seven States were represented proving a rather dubious aftermath of the Coliseum festivities, there was tangible talk of a third electoral ticket. And Republican leaders have not forgotten that Senator Hiram Johnson, the Progressive entry, left Chicago without a word.

Here is the statement made by Bancroft Abbot, the Boston lumberman. Bull Moose organizer in New England in 1912. Johnson manager in the same territory this year, and instigator of the post-convention meeting of Progressives:

"We are forming an organization. This organization is not necessarily a party. After the San Francisco convention a meeting will be held, probably in Chicago, at which time we shall decide whether to endorse a candidate already in the field or run a new ticket.

"The same course will be carried out in the Senatorial, Congressional and State fights. When a man is a real American he will be indorsed regardless of whether he is running as a Republican or Democrat or Independent."

GUILTY OF SLASHING WOMAN WITH KNIFE

Harry Kaplan was today found guilty, before Judge Cox, of assault with intent to kill on Mrs. Pearl Miller. The assault occurred May 18 in a button factory, where Mrs. Miller was employed. Kaplan slashed Mrs. Miller on the face with a knife.

Movies Led to Girl's Kidnaping Story

Lawrence, June 15—The effect that a "movie" had upon little Helen Herlihy of No. 849 South Union street caused the bureau police inspectors to institute a vain search for a band of kidnapers in the region of the John Breen school, South Lawrence, where the child is a pupil.

The child, in a state bordering on hysteria, turned back from her journey to school in alarm. It was feared that she had been attacked in the Cold Spring Woods. Inspectors scoured the woods but failed to find trace of alleged kidnapers.

The child finally admitted that she had become alarmed as she was passing the woods because she recalled a movie she had seen in which a girl was kidnaped. The scene had so impressed itself in her mind that she had told the story of being accosted by kidnapers.

Lawrence Mayor Asks Sherburne to Conduct Profiteering Hearing in Mill City

Lawrence, June 16.—Mayor Wilfred P. White of this city conferred with General John H. Sherburne, chairman of the State Commission on the necessaries of life, asking that the Commission come to this city to conduct a hearing on the ice profiteering question. According to Mayor White the results of an investigation conducted by him justify intervention by the State body.

Mayor White states that he will insist that General Sherburne preside if the investigation is held. The hearing held here by the State board a Summer resulted in cheaper ice. Mayor White claims indicate that ice can be sold here for 60 cents a hundred.

The present price is 75 cents a hundred. This price is 25 cents a hundred lower than that charged before the White investigation began.

3 LYNCHED IN DULUTH, MINN.

Troops Quell Mob That 'Tried' Circus Hands for Attack on Girl

Duluth, Minn., June 16.—Two National Guard companies of infantry arrived here today following the lynching of three negroes by a mob of 5,000 persons.

After taking possession of police headquarters and shooting six suspects for an attack on a white girl, "court" was held and three of the prisoners sentenced.

The other three were lynched soon after another.

The first negro was hanged within a few minutes throw of police headquarters. As he was hoisted to a telegraph pole the rope broke and he fell to the ground. Leaders of the mob pounced upon him, holding him fast until another rope was obtained. This time there was no slip and the crowd, women included, stood about watching the victim's last struggles.

Not a shot was fired in the attack on the police station, the mob using bricks and other missiles, and in the final stage streams of water from the fire hose take from the police themselves. Efforts were directed toward battering down the steel doors leading to the cell rooms, and it took only a few minutes before the crowd succeeded in the attempt.

The attack on the girl is alleged to have occurred on Monday night at the circus grounds here. The negroes employed with the circus, were arrested.

WIDOW OF ELWELL, SLAIN TURFMAN, PLANNED FOR DIVORCE

INSULTED KENTUCKY GIRL

Her Father and Brother Sought in New York Murder Mystery

New York, June 16.—Anticipating the investigation of her marital troubles by the district attorney's office, Mrs. Helen Darby Elwell revealed for the first time today that she was arranging to meet her estranged husband, Joseph R. Elwell, to discuss plans for a divorce from the turfman who was shot to death in his West Seventieth street home.

"I received a letter from him about a month before the tragedy suggesting that I get a divorce," the widow said. "He suggested that he settle a lump sum upon me.

"We were to have met later to discuss the matter personally, but the tragedy intervened."

Mrs. Elwell said she had started preparations for a separation suit about four years ago, but that her plans had been dropped following "an amicable adjustment" affected at a conference with the turfman at Belmonico's. Both the turfman and the widow were attended at the conference by their attorneys. Mrs. Elwell did not say what the terms of settlement were.

"This is the last time I ever saw him," she said.

DENIES THEY QUARRELED.

The widow declared that there had never been a quarrel between her and Elwell in all their married life.

"I let him alone and he let me alone," she said. She also denied that there had ever been any friction between her and members of the turfman's family.

"I was at his father's house over in New Jersey both before and after the funeral yesterday," she explained. "They treated me very courteously—all of them."

Under direction of District Attorney Swann detectives have gone to Kentucky.

Elwell is said to have become intimate with a young girl during a recent visit to the race track at Lexington. It is said he was forced to leave suddenly because of threats made by male relatives of the girl.

The bridge whist expert and society favorite was on terms of intimacy with many women, according to a statement made by the district attorney by William H. Barnes, steward of an exclusive club, who knew the victim well.

Barnes has been closely questioned by Assistant Attorney Swann. We learned from Barnes," said the district attorney, "that the slain turfman was on terms of almost intimacy with at least fifty girls and women."

"There are three leads at present in the Elwell case," said District Attorney Swann, "all of which have jealousy or revenge as the motive. Of the three the Lexington lead appears the most likely to produce results."

Elwell was accompanied by an unidentified man when he reached his home at 3:45 o'clock Friday morning, a few hours before the murder, it was learned today when Assistant District Attorney Joyce questioned the driver of the taxi which bore Elwell home from the cabaret.

It was at a Tenderloin trottery that the turfman and bridge whist expert spent the final hours of a prolonged night's outing, which had included a theatre party and dinner. It was only after separating from the dinner party guests that he visited the cabaret, according to present information.

DANCED WITH WOMAN.

At the latter place he was in the company of a man and woman, the identity of whom the police are eager to learn. He danced with the woman, it was said, but when he left the place it was the sole company of the man. Whether that man is the same one who rode with Elwell to his home in West 70th street, and whether his companion entered the house with him, are points yet to be determined in the unravelling of the mystery surrounding the murder.

When the man is found he will be closely questioned as to his movements after the taxi left the Elwell home. He will demand to know whether he was with Elwell between 4:45 a. m. and the time when Marie Larsen, Elwell's housekeeper, found the turfman, clad in pajamas, sitting stiffly in a chair in his living room, dying with a 45-calibre bullet hole through his heart.

Two pairs of the women's lingerie, bits of delicate fabric, were discovered today in Elwell's home. One was a kimono, the other a camisole, and both were of costly texture, indicating that they had been worn by women to whom the high price of clothing was a matter of slight moment. From the kimono a small piece had been clipped, apparently by the assassins, as if to remove telltale initials, monogram or name. The camisole was unmarked.

SAY GUNMAN IS THE MURDERER.

The search for clews to the identity of Elwell's murderer extended today to Southern points, detectives being sent to Palm Beach, and various places where Elwell had been in the habit of attending races, such as Latonia, Louisville and Saratoga.

"Someone from the underworld committed this murder, in the opinion of the police at Belmont Park track who knew Elwell," it was declared today by a racing man who was well acquainted with the "Wall King." He added: "They believe the act was committed by a woman who was angry at Elwell for one of a dozen reasons."

A new theory upon which the police are working, is that Elwell was murdered in revenge because during his activities in the Russian Soviet Relief Bureau he "turned up" a number of alien enemies to Federal authorities. One of these, according to this theory, may have carefully planned vengeance, and executed it after having studied the habits of the turfman.

Roche Calls Elwell Blackmail Victim

By ARTHUR SOMERS ROCHE,

Author of "Uneasy Street," Best Selling Mystery Novel of the Year.

In my previous venture into the field of somewhat fanciful speculation about the Elwell mystery I stated that motive was unimportant as compared with opportunity. To seek among the acquaintances or friends of acquaintances of the dead man for one possessing a motive that would impel him or her to murder is to start at the outer edge of the circle and work in.

For motive must be coupled with opportunity before one has evidence; whereas opportunity may be coupled with but the vaguest of reason and yet develop into circumstances that in turn develop into court rooms and judges, juries and jails.

But when one starts with opportunity, one begins at the centre of the circle. It is true, of course, that the field widens as one works outward, but paradoxically it also narrows, as I shall try to demonstrate.

CHARACTER ANALYSIS USELESS.

Elwell knew, let us assume for the sake of argument, one hundred persons. To seek motive among these hundred persons is to engage upon a stupendous task. For motive, murderous motive, maybe, was in the heart of John Smith, the recollector of an ill turn done many years ago; a recollection that has been rendered more bitter by time, a recollection that may have warped his brain.

Whereas motive in the heart of Tom Jones may be an incident so recent that it could not yet have become a memory. Smith is the man who needs time in which to work himself up to a pitch of murderous rage; Jones is the man who strikes at once.

So, starting without previous knowledge of the one hundred persons who for the sake of our thesis comprises the Elwell acquaintance, one must, if one considers the discovery of motive a condition precedent to arriving at a point of suspicion, prepare to examine into the hearts and minds of one hundred different persons.

It would not be sufficient to examine into their pasts. One might find that Elwell had grievously wronged John Smith. But analysis of the character of John Smith might assure us that he could not, under the most grievous provocation, do harm to any living thing. By the time that he had made that exhaustive yet necessary study of half of the Elwell acquaintance, the other half would have died of old age.

LOOK FOR EVASIVE ANSWER.

But if one understands that motive is an elastic word, that it varies not merely with different persons but with different occasions, for instance, a man might not resent being called a liar if none were present to overhear, but might shoot to kill were the epithet publicly delivered—one seeks for opportunity. One then does not ask of John Smith, "What wrong did Elwell do to you?" One asks, "Where were you Friday morning?"

Sooner or later comes an answer that, upon investigation, does not ring true.

And then, having found the person who had opportunity, one looks for motive. It is usually found.

All the foregoing, of course, is based upon the assumption that the murderer may be found among the Elwell acquaintances. Relying only upon what facts have been printed in the newspapers up to Tuesday morning, I am still convinced that no stranger to the dead man committed the crime.

And the suggestion that some wronged husband, some avenging father or brother or lover, fired the shot that ended Elwell's career strikes me as within the possibilities, but not among the probabilities.

FINDS ONE THEORY "ABSURD."

I find no romance in this mystery, baffling to the mind, and thus appealing to the imagination, as it may be. That there may have been the intrigue of the vulgar sort, I do not deny.

But that the hand that held the pistol to Elwell's head was strengthened by the memory of a loved one betrayed, appeals more to my sense of absurdity than to any other sense. And I qualify this statement merely to the extent of stating again that my information, both as to the circumstances of the murder and to the character of the victim, is based upon newspaper reading only.

And while I admire the newspapers' presentation of the case, I know that reporters are not enabled to make investigation with the authority that is afforded to the police, and can give to the public, more often than not, merely surmises based upon such police activities as are given to the press.

I find no romance in this mystery. It is a sordid thing, a thing of gambling houses, of race tracks, of easy money that breeds easy consciences.

A "BROADWAY" CRIME.

It is Broadway at its Broadwayest, and Broadway is never so glaringly itself as when it apes the Avenue. Between Broadway and Fifth avenue, in the Forties, there lies Sixth avenue, a street that cowers beneath the tracks of the elevated, and recently where the handbook man lurked in the saloon back room, where the plug-ugly rubbed his dandified shoulders against the shoddy silk of a woman.

I see think of nothing so suggestive of the offspring of that strange mating of easy money and the avenue as the "L"-shaded street that lies between.

For the worst of both meet there, and this tragedy is but the sign post of such unions. And when I see such a tragedy as this I say, "Follow the money—I read the answer thus:

Find the man who thought that Elwell would, Broadway-like, give up."

Find a man who knew who had opportunity to kill Elwell though not so very well. A man whose threats Elwell disdained. A man whom Elwell's passing knowledge no consequence. But first find the man with opportunity.

THREE BISHOPS AT ST. PAUL'S

Lawrence Pleads for "People's Churches" at Cathedral Centennial

Bishop William Lawrence pleaded that Episcopal cathedrals in America should be distinctly people's churches in his sermon today at the services in commemoration of the centennial of the consecration of St. Paul's Cathedral.

Episcopal clergymen and laymen were present from various sections of the State. Over fifty clergymen of the diocese with three bishops, preceded by a crucifer and a large number of choristers, made up the large procession, in which there were carried the American and State flags.

Bishop Lawrence served as celebrant, with Bishop Samuel G. Babcock as epistoler and Bishop Herbert Bury of the Anglican churches of Northern and Central Europe as gospeler in the Holy Communion service.

After reviewing the history of St. Paul's, Bishop Lawrence said:

"The modesty of the Cathedral church and its sincere spiritual work and worship have drawn people towards it.

"This cathedral is to be the people's church. Its doors are open for prayer for one. It welcomes all denominations for private prayer, public worship, silent rest and meditation.

"This cathedral is also to be of real value in binding church and community together for the common good of church, city and nation."

A solemn Te Deum was sung before the sermon.

The offering goes to the rebuilding of St. Paul's Cathedral in Belgium.

After the service a luncheon was served in the cathedral rooms to all the clergy and laymen.

CHARGE PLOT TO ATTACK GIRLS

East Jaffrey High School Boys Held in $2,000 for Grand Jury

East Jaffrey, N. H., June 16—Details of an organized system to lure girls of tender age in an auto to a camp on the shore of Lake Contoocook at Rindge were made public by the arrest of Samuel Stowell and Richard Annett, seniors at Conant High School, both eighteen years of age.

Stowell, the son of pr. E. Channing Stowell of this town, and formerly of Boston, whose mother is also a physician, is accused of an attack on a thirteen-year-old girl in the freshman class. Annett is charged with having attempted a similar attack on a fifteen-year-old girl.

They were arraigned before Special Justice Charles L. Rich and later before Judge Allen in Keene where they waived examination. Each was held in $1,000 bonds for the October term of the Grand Jury.

STRIKERS HEAR REPLIES FROM GENERAL ELECTRIC

General Manager Richard H. Rice of the General Electric works at Lynn replied to a series of questions of a committee of the union regarding four demands made by that body. He refused the demand that the workers, who went on strike against the time system about four weeks ago, be reinstated in their former positions without loss of the bonus. The workers may apply for their positions as new employees, however. The general manager further stated that the time system was absolutely necessary to the company's business and would not be abolished at the plant.

TROOPS TRAIL MURDERERS

Wife of Army Officer Shot While Asleep in Auto at Camp Grant

By International News Service.

Camp Grant, Ill., June 16—Companies of soldiers, bands of deputy sheriffs and armed citizens' posses are scouring the countryside today in a hunt for five fugitive soldiers, in connection with the mysterious shooting and killing of Mrs. Maude Lucille Moss, wife of Captain Leroy H. Moss, of the United States Army, and a daughter of Hion J. Arnold, nationally known as a fraction and engineering expert.

Mrs. Moss was shot by a pistol bullet while riding with her husband, and a party of friends in her automobile, just after the machine had passed a group of soldiers on a road near Camp Grant.

The sound of a shot was heard, but Mrs. Moss was asleep in the rear of the automobile when the bullet struck her, and the fact she was shot was not discovered until several minutes afterward.

She was rushed to the Camp Grant Hospital where she died thirty minutes later. The bullet had entered at the back of her head and passed out through the left temple.

Riding with Captain and Mrs. Moss were Captain and Mrs. William V. McCreight and Mrs. McCreight's mother and sister.

DECIDE AGAINST 'DEMOCRACY'

Bankers in Debate Declare Collective Bargaining Is Best in Any Business

Industrial democracy by means of the "voice and vote" method is not the best solution of the present unrest in the United States, according to the decision of the judges in the debate held today in Huntington Hall before delegates to the convention of the American Banking Institute.

The judges were Professor Samuel Williston of Harvard Law School, Henry S. Grew, president of National Union Bank, and Attorney L. C. Goodale.

Winners of the debate are William W. Allen, Jr., Howard E. Delly and Paul Harrington of Philadelphia. They took the negative side of the question. The losers were J. E. Woolwine, Miss Josephine M. Parker and George R. Kingdon, all of Los Angeles.

The question debated was: "Resolved: That the adoption of a scheme of true industrial democracy, in which the worker has a voice and vote in the management of industry, is the best solution of industrial unrest."

"The burden of the affirmative argument was that, under a system of industrial democracy has been put into effect production has increased, labor turnover has decreased, and there has been general satisfaction. It was contended that industrial democracy has resulted in better housing for employes.

The negative speakers claimed that it was impracticable to allow a worker to have a vote equal to that of employer, as in management of business, and that while much good may be done through discussion of questions between employes and employers that the man who puts the money into an enterprise should be the one to say how the business shall be managed.

All said that collective bargaining and a square deal by employers toward employees would do more to settle the present unrest.

Visiting lady delegates were taken on a tour of Boston department stores this morning and this afternoon the program consisted of a visit to the entire convention to Lexington and Concord.

The ladies of the Bankers' Association were entertained today by Jordan Marsh Company in its exhibition room on the seventh floor of the annex. They were met by a corps of young lady ushers, under the direction of Miss Virginia Gilmore, who later acted as guides for tours throughout the store buildings. The firm extended an invitation to the visitors to inspect the fellow-workers' recreation room on the ninth floor, which have been recently opened, and most favorably commented on for perfection of detail and spaciousness.

A diamond ring figures prominently in the divorce proceedings of Mrs. Ruth Gannon, who is suing another girl, her husband, Henry J., before Judge Wilkins in the Divorce Court.

Mrs. Gannon, who is suing on the grounds of cruel treatment, non-support and desertion, charges that her husband bought a diamond ring for a Chelsea girl, now dead, from money which belonged to her (the wife). She claims that while he was in the brig at Deer Island awaiting trial for alleged desertion from the navy her husband repented and told her what he had done and asked her to go to Chelsea to get the ring.

She went to Chelsea and learned that the girl had died after a few days' illness from pneumonia, but got the ring from the girl's aunt. She also says she had seen letters her husband wrote to the girl.

Reference to the ring was also made during the testimony of Elizabeth MacDonald, proprietor of a Tremont street lodging house.

Mrs. Gannon called and told him that it wasn't very nice for him to take money from his wife and buy a diamond ring for another girl. He said he was drunk when he gave it to her."

In opposing of the counter charge of infidelity made against Mrs. Gannon, the lodging house proprietor said: "She was very nice and ladylike when she lived at my house and never did anything improper that I know of while she was there."

Women Ask One of Sex For Vice-President

By International News Service.

San Francisco, Cal., June 16.—Will the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination go to a woman?

This query was agitating not alone the feminine advance guard to the national convention, but also the male contingent here today.

One well-defined Vice-Presidential boom for a woman is well under way, but two other names of women prominent in the party are being mentioned in connection with the proposal to make a member of the fair sex close to if not actually in the White House.

The boom is for Mrs. Annette A. Adams of San Francisco, recently named assistant attorney-general of the United States and formerly United States district attorney for Northern California. She now holds the highest governmental appointment ever given a woman.

Her availability as a candidate is being enthusiastically boosted by several Pacific Coast women's clubs and endorsements of the boom have been given by a number of women leaders who have arrived here to attend the convention. Mrs. Adams herself has decided to become an active candidate for the nomination.

The two other women are Mrs. George Bass of Chicago, head of the woman's bureau of the party, and Miss Elizabeth Marbury of New York, daughter of an old Tammany chieftain and holder of many decorations for her war work. Both Mrs. Bass and Miss Marbury are in San Francisco.

COX GOING TO COAL MEETING

Lieutenant-Governor to Help Solve the New England Fuel Problem

Lieutenant-Governor Cox will represent Massachusetts at the New England coal conference in Washington tomorrow. The conference will take action to bring about better transportation facilities from the mines to tidewater for ocean shipment, as well as all rail shipment, and if necessary the bringing about of an embargo to divert European coal to this section. Concerted action by the New England representatives, it is pointed out, is necessary if results are to be obtained.

Information received today at the State House indicate that the New England conference will consist of lieutenant-governors, former fuel administrators and members of the public utilities departments of the six States.

Commissioner David A. Ellis has gone to Washington to take part in the conference. Fuel Administrator James J. Storrow is there. He and Ellis conferred with Governor Coolidge last Monday.

INVESTIGATION OF WORCESTER RAILROAD WRECK IS STARTED

I applied the brakes again, but they were not as effective as if I had not used them all the way down the grade. They bit, however, but too late to prevent the crash.

"I did all in my power, God knows, to prevent the accident, but 250 feet, with the momentum we had gained on the grade was not enough space to stop in.

"We were probably going twenty-five miles an hour when I rounded the bend and saw No. 18 stopped dead ahead.

"If No. 18 had a flagman out far enough on the bend and I had seen him, as I know I would have had he been there, the accident would not have happened.

HIS FIRST WRECK.

"I don't remember the crash. I faintly recall falling out of my cab but I don't recall any great pain. I could think only of what had happened. I have been a locomotive engineer twenty years and never had any trouble before. I have been on the Boston & Albany sixteen years, and for the last two years ran the Worcester local every night. But I guess its all over now. And I had hoped to quit railroading in three years and had planned for a little home in the country."

Every effort is being made to find out why the Worcester 2:10 local was permitted to leave the Union Station on schedule time, only three minutes after the Albany express, forty minutes late, had pulled out for Boston.

Inquiry is also being made as to how a big iron clawbar which got tangled in the wheels of the Albany express, bringing that train to a stop, came to be on the tracks.

PINNED UNDER SEATS.

The Boston College baseball squad and a big crowd of rooters were on their way home from Worcester after the game which Holy Cross won 5 to 1.

When the crash came many of the boys were struck by flying glass and fixtures in the cars, some were pinned under the seats and had to be extricated by their friends.

Ex-Representative Alfred Moore of Boston, F. C. Reynolds of Boston College, J. J. O'Brien of Boston and Dave Morey, former football man at Dartmouth and now of Malden High School, were seated in two seats at the front end of the middle car of the train. They were thrown in a heap to the other side of the car and fell upon which they had been sitting were dislodged and crushed.

Among some of the Boston College contingent on the train were Ted Palmer, Jack Heaphy, Jimmy Keiley, Billy Dempsey, Coach Tom McCarthy, Victor Rochette, Rev. Father Cox, S. J., the Rev. Father McLaughlin, S. J., Peter Walker, trainer at Boston College, Jack Halligan and Jimmy Elston.

PRIEST AVERTS PANIC.

A near panic started in the last car when it was hit by the oncoming locomotive. The Rev. Fr. McLaughlin went among the passengers endeavoring to quiet the hysterical women and excited men. Robert M. Evans, 24 Commonwealth avenue, Newton, a member of the firm of Evans and Tavares of Boston, who boarded the express at Albany, was struck on the head when the crash came and does not remember anything about the accident. He was on his way to Boston. He was removed to the City Hospital.

The express was stopped by Baggageman Eugene E. Murphy, who pulled the air cord when he heard something crashing against the floor of his car. This something proved to be the clawbar which had wound itself around the axle of the wheel, and the end of which was pounding against the floor of the car.

Murphy had crawled under the car to ascertain the cause of the trouble and barely had time to crawl from under it again before the local crashed into the end of the express. A second later the baggageman would have been ground to pieces. His getting out to find out the cause of the trouble in the first place probably saved his life, for had he remained in the car he would have been crushed beneath the mass of baggage, which was piled over his desk at which he had been working.

RAILROAD STATEMENT.

The Boston & Albany statement says in part:

"The cause of the accident to train, No. 18 was a heavy claw crowbar, which it is now believed was dropped on the tracks from the Hamilton street bridge. The general manager of the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway has agreed to investigate whether this pinch bar is the property of his company; also, the Worcester police are investigating this phase of the matter.

"It is known that Engineer Card respected the caution indication of the automatic block signal at tower 26, which is 9,637 feet west of the point of collision. It is not known what respect was given to automatic block signal 42.12.

"Flagman Curran, who has been in the service of the company since 1907, with a clear record, not only had his red and white lanterns, but he placed a torpedo and was waving a lighted fuse. This warning was acknowledged by the engineer (Card) of the incoming train."

FIGHT ON OVER PLUMB PLAN

Miners Unite With Railroad Men for Indorsement by A. F. of L.

By International News Service.

Montreal, June 16.—Announcement by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the miners will support the railroad workers on the resolution demanding adoption of the Plumb plan which is before the American Federation of Labor Convention was said by leaders of the insurgent faction to insure them victory in their first big fight against the Federation administration.

The alignment of miners and railroad unions is the first definite move to effect an alliance for "joint economic action." The miners seek to have the Plumb plan applied to the mining industry.

A movement is on foot to form a "triple alliance" like the railway workers, miners and dock workers in England. In the United States, however, the "triple alliance" would be composed of railroad workers, miners and steel workers.

The Plumb plan resolution was temporarily sidetracked by discussion on the resolution demanding recognition of the Russian Soviet. President Samuel Gompers vigorously opposes the Plumb plan.

It was expected six members of the resolutions committee—a majority—would reject the Plumb plan and offer a substitute for government control of railways. The three remaining members of the committee were expected to recommend government ownership, with the workers represented on the board of management.

The Irish sympathizers were scheduled to get into action this afternoon on the League of Nations issue. They claim enough support to defeat the administration's efforts to have the Federation endorse the league without reservations.

IRISH DEFINED AS "BRUTAL"

Slur on Race in Dictionary Used in Boston Public Schools Creates Storm of Protest

Incensed at the reference made to the Irish people in the definition of the word "brutal" in the Century Dictionary used in the public schools, Edward F. McSweeney of the Friends of Irish Freedom today called the attention of the school authorities to a matter with the request that it be eliminated at once.

The word "brutal" is found on page No. 706 of the dictionary. It is defined as "pertaining to or resembling a brute; brutish, as brutal nature," and then comes the offensive reference to the Irish, taken from Emerson, English traits, page 299, as follows:

"In Irish districts, men deteriorated in size and shape, the nose sunk, the jaws were exposed, with diminished brain and brutal form."

Commenting on what he termed the insulting reference to the Irish, McSweeney called attention to the fact that Emerson's book was full of referring to the brutality of the emissaries of the British government on the people of Ireland and that its use in the dictionary as a definition of the word "brutal," was in line with the propaganda now being fed to the children of the public schools to discredit the aspirations of an "unconquered race."

O'CONNOR TO PROTEST.

Charles S. O'Connor of the Boston School Committee, whose attention was directed to use of the dictionary in the public schools in South Boston and other sections of the city, declared that he will take steps to have the offensive reference to the Irish removed from the dictionary if the latter is to be continued as a reference book.

"I cannot condemn the dictionary too strongly for the insult contained therein to the race from which I sprung," said O'Connor.

Irish and kindred societies in Greater Boston are up in arms over the matter and intend to back up McSweeney in his efforts to have State Commissioner of Education Payson Smith get the publishers of the book to strike out the offending reference in all the schools and colleges in the state.

IRISH COAL REPORT.

The News Letter of the Friends of Irish Freedom calls attention to the recent report of the Irish coal industries committee, issued in the form of an official paper, stating that the report "contains some interesting information in regard to the industrial relations of Great Britain and Ireland."

Continuing, the report reads, in part:

"We learn that Ireland has, in the past, depended to a great extent on Great Britain for her coal supply. The annual consumption in Ireland is approximately four and one-half million tons of coal and five to six million tons of peat. Of this amount, Ireland produces only about 92,000 tons. The natural resources of Ireland are capable of abundantly providing for her wants.

"The oppressive measures of the English industrial control in Ireland are alone responsible for this enormous shortage between supply and demand. It is to be noted that the fuel imported by Ireland is exclusively from British sources. Under the direction of the Irish Republican Government, Irish industries are reawakening and are making a valiant effort to attain their natural proportions. Ireland's industrial dependence on England is the result solely of British misrule."

FIVE "WARS" GOING ON IN EUROPE AND ASIA

FIGHT STERMS OF LUCE WILL

Grandson Charges Undue Influence by His Uncle, Congressman Luce

The will of Judge Enos T. Luce, who for many years was Judge of the Police Court of Attleboro, which disposes of an estate valued at between $12,000 and $15,000, is being contested by his grandson, Ralph W. Luce, a first lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps, who alleges undue influence on the part of his uncle, Congressman Robert Luce.

Ralph Luce, under the terms of the will, is given $1,000 and $500 a year for ten years, and Robert Luce, who was appointed an executor, received a bequest of $5,000 and the residue of his father's property.

JURY TRIAL REFUSED.

The Probate Court of Middlesex County allowed Judge Luce's will, and Ralph appealed to the Supreme Court. His petition to have issues framed and sent to the Superior Court for trial by a jury was denied, and Judge De Courcy of the Supreme Court in full bench decided that the will shall be allowed or disallowed.

Robert Luce, when examined by the attorney for the contestant, admitted that at times his father was proud of Ralph and was much interested in his welfare. He also understood that it was his father's intention that Ralph should have a college education.

It also was brought out that one of the reasons why Judge Luce did not care more to Ralph was because of his dislike for Ralph's mother.

AIDED BOY FINANCIALLY.

Ralph W. Luce, in his uniform of an officer of the Marine Corps, testified that in 1913 he attended St. Paul's School, and then went to the Columbia School of Journalism, then to Plattsburg, worked for six weeks as a "cub reporter" on a Boston newspaper, enlisted in the marines as a private, went to Cuba, then to Quantico, Va., for training as an officer, and then overseas.

Young Luce said that his grandfather frequently corresponded with him, that he took him on an automobile trip through Maine when he attended Commencement exercises at Bowdoin College, that he was desirous that he should study classics at Columbia, saying: "That's all right, I'll see to that." He said that his grandfather paid his way partly in school and helped him financially.

NOT ENOUGH PRISONERS FOR CELLS, SAYS BATES

All of the prisoners in the county institutions of the State could be housed in two or three institutions with a resultant large saving of taxpayers' money, according to Commissioner of Corrections Sanford Bates.

Figures contained in a statement by the commissioner also show a shrinkage of inmates in the county jails and houses of correction of 40 per cent during the past year. The commissioner says that 3,875 cells are now being maintained in house only 805 prisoners. Five county institutions have been closed and sixteen are still open. Of the sixteen, the institution at Edgartown is empty.

TWO WORKERS HURT BY BREAKING OF BOOM

Manchester, N. H., June 16.—Paul Margaronis is believed to have been fatally injured and Joseph Roy and Cyprien Bouey were seriously hurt by the breaking of the boom of a steam derrick at a dam being constructed across the Merrimac river at Amoskeag Falls by the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company.

The men were laborers employed on the work. Margaronis started work Tuesday morning. The breaking of a cable was responsible for the accident.

FIRECRACKERS ON ROOF START SOMERVILLE FIRE

Firecrackers tossed by boys onto the roof of the house at No. 2 Tremont place, Somerville, is given as the cause of a fire, which did $75 damage to the dwelling house owned by Mary Collins of Trowbridge street, Cambridge, and occupied by Mrs. Annie McCarthy and family. A pedestrian discovered the fire and sounded an alarm from Box 24, bringing apparatus from Somerville and Cambridge to the scene.

RUNNING DOWN 'WHISKEY RING'

More Arrests Are Expected Following Shooting at New Haven, Ct.

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., June 16.—Coroner Mix took charge of the investigation today of the shooting here of Dominick Perrotti, one of the alleged "murder whiskey" ring, who were indicted in Massachusetts as a result of many deaths in Chicopee last December.

At the hospital it was stated that Perrotti was comfortable and that his condition was not considered serious.

Michael Fiore, twenty-four years old, who claims Torrington as his home and who was arrested following an attack on Perrotti, was taken before the coroner for a grilling. Further arrests are expected in an attempt to round up other members of an alleged "whiskey ring" whose operations are said to have been disclosed in a confession by Fiore after his arrest.

Perrotti is said to have been charged by Fiore with being the head of the gang which has been importing alcohol from New York and turning it into whiskey, which has been sold at great profit.

Perrotti was seated in his automobile in Whiting street late yesterday. He had just been to the hospital with his nephew, William Pepe, who had been fatally shot by Perrotti's fiveyear-old son, Michael, at the Perrotti home in Westville. Fiore approached and fired five shots, three of which struck Perrotti. Fiore fled, pursued by a mob, and was captured. Following his arrest Fiore said he shot Perrotti because he refused to pay him a debt of $700, but later he is alleged to have made disclosures which led to an investigation of the whiskey "ring" by the police.

Coolidge Better Man, Says German Paper

By International News Service.

Berlin, June 16.—"Senator Harding's election would not be unfavorable to Germany," says the Berliner Tageblatt in commenting today upon the result of the Republican national convention at Chicago.

"In any other country Governor Coolidge would have been nominated for President and Senator Harding for Vice-President," says the Frankfurter Zeitung. "But it is apparent that since President Wilson has been in power America has developed antipathy against a President of superior intelligence."

408 ARE GIVEN DEGREES AT B. U.

Justice Stafford in Address Says Time Has Come for People to Rule Country

Justice Wendell Phillips Stafford of the court of the District of Columbia gave a stirring oration on "Liberty and Law" today at the Boston University commencement exercises held at Tremont Temple, when 408 degrees were conferred by President Lemuel Herbert Murlin.

"The danger in a democracy," declared Justice Stafford, "is that somefaction or group may get control and make laws in its own interest, or interfere with the execution of the people's laws.

"When things get to the pass they are in today there is only one remedy left, a rousing call to the people themselves to take things into their own hands once more, to send all timid time-serving, incompetent public servants home, and to call out the strong and fearless men, the upright and clear-hearted men, to take their places."

Only one doctor of philosophy degree was conferred this year, the candidate being Raymond Frank Piper, A. B., University of Wisconsin, of Syracuse, N. Y., who has already taken his M. S. at B. U.

Six of the faculty received their master of arts degrees. Professor Salvedore Cornejo or Havana, Cuba, professor in the Spanish department at the College of Business Administration, has already obtained his Ph.D. from St. Francisco de Leon, Spain. The other faculty members adding their master's degree are: Charles F. N. Allen, A. B., '13, assistant in the examining laboratory; Professor Joseph Andrew F. O'Neil, accounting department; Joseph C. Balamountain, A. B. B. U., '15, French instructor; Lucien Bradford Taylor, S. B., Taunton, physics instructor.

Miss Ruth Marguerite Picard, B. U.'s exchange student, who hails from "Jeanne" from the University of Paris, and has been appointed assistant instructor in French for the Summer session at B. U., won her A. M. in English literature. Miss Bessie A. Ring, A. B., of Dorchester, secretary of the B. U. Graduate School, won her master's degree.

Miss Georgia E. Harkness of Harkness, N. Y., was the only student to receive two master's degrees at once. She won her master of arts and master of religious education simultaneously. James G. Joyce of Cohoesar, N. Y., received both the master of education degree and bachelor of sacred theology.

Librarian Ralph Lester Power of the College of Business Administration and Professor Harold Clegg Spencer were the only candidates for the degree in master of business administration.

3 HURT IN LYNN AUTO CRASH

Woman and 2 Men Occupants Bruised When Machine Collides With Street Car

Two men and a woman were injured in a collision between a Bay State street railway car and an automobile at Lynn early today. Those injured were occupants of the machine.

They are Frank Schindewolf of No. 97 Gladstone road, Brookline, driver, whose injuries to the right arm required stitches at Lynn Hospital; Miss May Murphy of No. 16 Harrison street, Quincy, whose head cut required four stitches; and a man whose name was not learned by the police.

He was treated in a physician's office for a broken collarbone. The fourth occupant of the machine was Miss Eleanor Sweeney of No. 81 Hollowell street, Dorchester, who was uninjured.

The collision occurred at Western avenue and Chestnut street.

What "Upkeep" Means to Your Watch

WHENEVER an intelligent man or woman wishes to buy anything it is a natural desire to purchase the best of its kind.

We all want fine furniture in our homes, fine china, silverware, clothes; we desire a fine automobile or to own a fine watch, or whatever we have set our hearts upon possessing.

We are never really satisfied with a lower standard than we have conceived. When the time comes that we can afford it, we invariably see to it that what we have desired becomes ours.

THIS worthy ambition is particularly true of a watch. When we go to our dealer's to make what should be an eventful, life-time purchase we are not going to jeopardize our investment for the sake of a few dollars. Especially if the difference between that watch at that price and this watch at this price will mean the difference between constant repair bills, uncertain time-keeping and a watch that is faithful in its day-in and year-out dependable service.

So, when we buy a watch, let us remember that it is not always what we see on the outside but the unseen things in the "works" that really count. And common sense tells us that if a watch good enough to challenge the world in the quality of its mechanism and the hidden superiorities of its exclusive inventions, costs more than a watch of so-called similar grade, we should not hesitate which watch is the one for us to own.

THE Waltham Watch is the only watch in the world that has taken the mystery out of the "works" of a watch. But the Waltham Watch has done infinitely more than that, it has proved beyond argument that this American built timepiece excels in advantages to every owner because of the advances in watch-making embraced in its construction.

Some of these inventions and practises are remarkable. But every one of them protects the owner of a Waltham Watch against big repair bills and insures those durable services for which the Waltham Watch is internationally famous.

AND the question of "Upkeep" should always be considered. The first cost of a watch has much to do with its final cost. We would need volumes if we published the record performances of Waltham Watches that have come to us in many thousands of testimonial letters from all over the world. Watches that have kept time for years save for occasional cleaning and oiling and are still faithfully ticking time for their proud owners.

We can truthfully say that no other watch in the world can show to the expert horologist the constructional superiorities contained in the mechanism of a Waltham Watch. They have amazed the foreign watch maker, as his published statements will verify

WHAT then does the buyer of a Waltham Watch inherit? First, a watch the "works" of which guarantee horological art at its highest development. Second, a standardized watch, every part involving immediate replacement or repair and each unit of co-equal quality. Third, a watch value that is sustained by the oldest and largest institution of its kind. Fourth, the only watch in the world made under one roof. Fifth, a watch that has won the highest honors at the world's greatest Expositions. Sixth, a beautiful watch, and beauty that does not sacrifice time-keeping ability for freakish good looks. Seventh, a watch that will give maximum of service at the minimum of upkeep cost.

Last but not least, a watch that will outlive you. There are thousands upon thousands of Waltham Watches still serving the children and grandchildren of the parents, who, a long time ago, went to their dealer and came away with what the years proved to be one of the best investments of life—a Waltham.

DEMOCRATS SEE NEW CRISIS

Leaders Fear Bolt of Voters if Convention Fails to Repudiate League

Convention repudiate it. I am in favor of the League reservations.

JOHN HANLEY AND JOHN KING of Millinocket, Me.—We are against the League of Nations because King and his sister vote than the United States, because England is given supremacy of the seas, and because England denies the right of Ireland to self determination.

JERRY H. DOYLE, former Mayor of Nashua, N. H.—I am utterly opposed to the League of Nations in any form. The principles laid down by Washington are good enough to be followed today.

EDWARD F. KEANE, sealer of weights and measures, Manchester, —I am, and always have been, opposed to the League in any shape. I believe the Democrats at San Francisco should take a stand against it.

JOHN J. SCULLY, of Concord, N. H., vice-president of the State Federation of Labor—I believe the Democratic National convention should come out flat-footed against the League of Nations.

B. STEVENS, attorney, of Millinocket, Me.—I believe President Wilson should have withdrawn from the League when he declared that we must have supremacy of the seas. I am against the League. I urge that the Democratic national convention assembled disavow it.

ELLEN RYAN JOLLY, of Pawtucket, R. I., former national president of the Women's Auxiliary to the A. O. H.—To consider any League of Nations until it is known that its principles are accorded self determination is not in accordance with American principles. Let us repudiate the league.

THOMAS F. COONEY, of Cranston, R. I., former candidate for Congress—We should repudiate the league — it is essentially undemocratic.

PATRICK CARUSO, prominent Democrat of Providence—I could talk a week on the fallacy of the League. We should be thrown overboard.

JOHN McCABE, State Senator, of Pawcaug, R. I.—I am against any league which ignores peoples struggling for freedom.

THOMAS O'BRIEN, of Pawtucket, former Democratic Representative—I do not agree with President Wilson. I don't think his party does. In my case, the league should be consigned to the limbo of forgotten or disproved theories.

WILLIAM G. TROY of Providence, former State Senator—The Democrats at San Francisco should defy the clique of officeholders and courtiers from the Washington ante-rooms and repudiate the league, as the voters demand.

CHESTER FORD, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee of Rockland—I am heartily in favor of an anti-league plank.

GEORGE MANSFIELD, STORY of Rockland, ex-Representative —I feel as Mr. Flood does. We can't throw the league overboard too quickly.

ARTHUR BOWEN, prominent Waterbill Democrat—This country cannot afford to mix up in European affairs. The Democratic national convention at San Francisco should repudiate it.

MRS. H. ORTONVILLE—The league is opposed to Democratic principles. I and many other Democrats are turning to Johnson or some other real American for leadership, and away from Wilsonism and all it means.

BARRY M. NOLAN and JAMES E. FITZGERALD of Haverhill—We are opposed to the league. We favor the repudiation of it in the convention.

CHARLES J. ILES, Westfield assessor —People want the league thoroughly explained to them before they will accept it. Many feel there is a "nigger in the woodpile."

PATRICK HENRY HORGAN, leading Democrat of Newport, R. I.—I am bitterly opposed to the Wilson policy of surrender to Great Britain. The best way to ruin the league is give his foreign policy, particularly the league, party indorsement.

GEORGE W. GREEN of North Smithfield, R. I., five times Mayor of Woonsocket and national committeeman from Rhode Island for sixteen years—American rights must be further safeguarded before this or any other league can be approved by patriotic citizens.

HERVE J. LAGACE, of Providence, delegate to the Democratic National Convention—I am for a league which recognizes every nation's right to liberty. This one does not. America cannot surrender her sovereignty. The Rhode Island State Convention resolutions call for big modifications before any true American can accept it.

WILLIAM A. McCARTHY, of Providence, alternate to the convention—Article X must be emphasized and many reservations protecting American rights made before the league will be fit to even consider.

FRANK W. McCOOLEY, judge, of Blackstone, alternate to the convention—David I. Walsh put the X-ray on the league, and I stand just where he stands.

A. H. WELCH, leading Democrat of Norway, Me.—We are having enough trouble at home without going abroad seeking it. I am in favor of Washington's policy, and a choice of Washington in preference to Wilson at San Francisco.

JAMES PALLON, judge, of Pittsfield District Court—I most heartily favor adoption of a plank at San Francisco repudiating the league with or without reservations. My conviction is that it is not a League of Nations but a League of Empires to suppress nationalistic aspirations.

HENRY M. SHAUGHNESSY, treasurer of the Democratic State Committee of Worcester—I object most emphatically to the league on the ground that it is un-American. I hope the Democratic national convention will abandon it and save their party and the country.

P. F. HOGAN, of East Jaffrey, N. H., county Democratic leader—Any form plank must be inserted at San Francisco repudiating Wilson's pet league. It is the only hope for the Democrats.

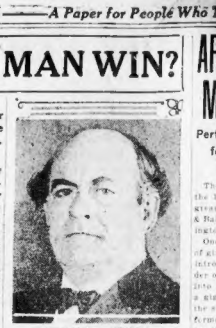
EDWARD C. CALLAHAN, of Lawrence, State Senator—The Democrats should kill the league for all time.

D. A. HOBAN, of Gardner, former representative—The way in which the Republicans dodged the issue leaves a wonderful opportunity for the Democrats. Inclusion of anti-league plank will assure victory in November.

CAN THIS MAN WIN?

"Boston American: "Greatly appreciate your compliment but do not care to be entered as a candidate. (Signed) "W. J. Bryan."

Despite this telegram there are still those who think William Jennings Bryan should have another chance to make his great dream come true. The following is from an eminent lawyer who campaigned the country for him time and again. It is the eleventh article of the American's review of the Democratic Presidential possibilities at the coming San Francisco convention.



WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

By JAMES M. HEAD,

Brookline man, who once refused a nomination for Governor of Tennessee.

The achievements of the Democratic party since the division over the financial issue in 1896 justifies the belief that the convention at San Francisco will adopt a platform and nominate a candidate who will uphold that record which the party has made for actual, progressive legislation. Who the candidate will be depends upon so many rapidly changing situations that it is impossible to forecast at this time. Neither is it possible to designate which of the many pressing issues will become the one dominant issue upon which the result of the election will depend.

DEPENDS ON ISSUES.

Whether the dominant issue will be our international relations or our own economic questions will depend upon what takes place before the convention meets.

Assuming that the present Congress continues to do nothing affirmative before the adjournment for the November election, that issue must depend upon what actually takes place at home and abroad before that time and this is so very uncertain as to make any estimate at this time nothing more than mere speculation.

If, however, the Democratic party remains true to its record for the past twenty-five years, both in and out of power, it will not hesitate to adopt a platform and nominate a candidate who is not afraid to take a position on both the external and internal questions which may arise and face the troublesome questions of prohibition, woman suffrage, the government ownership of all public service corporations, the amicable settlement of all labor disputes and the proper adjustment of our international relations upon the basis of the brotherhood of man.

NEEDED AS A "HOSES."

If, when the convention meets, the Democratic Party is not in the attitude of the young man afraid of his horses, it will accept as its leader and nominate the man who, for twenty-five years, has piloted the party through the rough seas which it has passed, has never failed to take a position on any public question when it first arises and has lived to see more of his policies enacted into laws than any public man.

The one man who is more responsible for the practical progressive legislation which the Democratic Party has enacted and is better equipped to lead the party at this particular time than anyone else is, W. J. Bryan, and he is also best qualified at this time to lead the party in view of the uncertainties with which it is confronted.

ARMY OF TENTS MAKE UP CIRCUS

Performers Enjoy Every Comfort in Canvas Homes; Small 'Tops' for Stars

There are many dressing tents in the behind-the-scenes portion of the great new Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined shows out at Huntington avenue show grounds.

One is used solely by the hundreds of girls who take part in the brilliant introductory pageant. Another, under one great canvas roof but divided into compartments in the fashion of a gigantic honeycomb, accommodates the scores upon scores of women performers. Still another is set apart for the male stars of the arenic program.

STARS HAVE OWN TENT.

The clowns have a tent to themselves, as do those who take part in the Wild West portion of the program. To these must be added the colony which is made up of small "tops" fitted with windows and awnings that make for one's seat at a Summer resort. These are occupied by the "stars among stars."

May Wirth, greatest of all bareback riders and who heads the congress of equestrianes that has been specially colled for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus, is the mistress of an attractive canvas home.

To accord this luxury and privilege in circusdom one must be among those who have achieved great things. May Wirth has surpassed all other equestrianes. Her wonderful forward and backward somersaults on the back of a galloping horse; her marvelous jumps from the ground to the back of a steed running at swiftest pace, and her many other remarkable attainments as a rider have gained her a place among the elect.

MAY WIRTH

LIKES PLENTY OF SUNSHINE.

Being young she loves the sunshine and prefers to "make up" in the lee of her tented home. So, having donned silks and spangles, she goes to a dressing table in the open air and there her maid adds the finishing touches to her toilet.

The "Big Show" will remain at Huntington avenue until Saturday night.

Police Seek Man Who Frightened Women Auditors at Providence

Providence, June 15—An employe of a Dorrance street pawnbroker and money lender is sought by the police to explain why he "shot up" the office in the presence of two women who are said to have visited the pawnshop for the purpose of auditing the books for the owner.

The report of the revolver brought hundreds of curious persons to the scene who expected to witness a tragedy. The police found one of the women on the verge of nervous prostration. The owner of the pawnshop says he will make a statement when the books have been examined. The establishment is one of the oldest in the city and is credited with doing an enormous business.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

Grandma kept her locks dark, glossy and youthful with a simple mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

CARPENTIER PLANS TRIP HOME WHILE DEMPSEY TALKS FIGHT

FIGHT FANS PUZZLED BY MOVE

Promoters Fear French Champion Will Never Return—Levinsky Bout Set Back

New York, June 16—If Georges Carpentier really wants to fight Jack Dempsey the time has arrived for him to prove it.

With the champion freed of slacker charges today the way has been paved for the signing of articles. It is time for a show-down on Carpentier's part.

News that Dempsey had been acquitted caused a noticeable stir in boxing circles here, and it is certain that both boxers will be engulfed in a new tidal wave of offers.

The International News Service is reliably informed that Dempsey stands ready to take on the Frenchman at any time. The champion wants to get back into the ring, and that without any haggling.

But Carpentier's intentions are uncertain. The announcement that he is to sail for France early in July without entering the ring in this country for a professional contest has greatly detracted from his popularity.

Francois Deschamps, it is said, has promised that Carpentier will return in September to go through with his match with Battling Levinsky, but once the Frenchman leaves our shores there is doubt that he can be lured to return.

Deschamps has the contract with Charles Cochran to fall back on in evading a match with Dempsey, for, according to the alleged terms of the contract, Carpentier will not be permitted to meet Dempsey in this country unless Cochran gives his consent.

So the much-talked-of Dempsey-Carpentier match is enveloped in just as big a cloud of uncertainty today as it has ever been.

BOYS' TENNIS TOURNEY BEGINS NEXT SATURDAY

The junior and boy tennis players of New England are getting ready for the fifth annual open tournament which begins Saturday morning on the dirt courts at Chestnut Hill under the direction of the Longwood Cricket Club.

The winners of the tournament, both singles and doubles, will be entitled to play in the Boston district events for juniors and boys August 19 at Longwood, while the winners of the mid-summer tournament will be sent to the nationals which begin September 1 at the West Side Club, New York. This is the incentive which is serving to attract many of the entrants.

The entries close at 5 o'clock, tomorrow night with Edwin Sheafe at No. 141 Milk street.

NORTH CAROLINA SIGNS 'GINGER' FRASER AS COACH

Paul "Ginger" Frazee of Dorchester, the former Colby College football and baseball star, has accepted the offer made by the University of North Carolina to coach the gridiron team next Fall.

Big Game for Revere

Revere will be back in sporting circles again when the fast Revere City team meets the Navy Yard nine at Curtis Park the holiday afternoon. The game promises to be the fastest shown in or local baseball this year. The game will be called at 3 o'clock.

Triple A Bouts

The Armory A. A. will stage two twelve-round bouts at Mechanics' Building next Tuesday night. In one of the events, Paddy Flynn of Everett will face Nate Siegal of Beachmont as an opponent. In the other Harry (Kid) Brown of Philadelphia will try to dispose of Vincent Martin of Cambridge.

Rowing by Twilight for Rival Crews

New London, Ct., June 16—Twilight rowing has become a fad with Coaches Haines and Nickalls of the Harvard and Yale crews.

Tuesday the rival crews did not take to the waters until after 7 o'clock and today's practice spins were scheduled for that hour. The intense heat caused both coaches to keep crews ashore until a late hour.

CUBS IN FINAL WITH BRAVES

Oeschger and Tyler Selected to Do Hurling in Last Game of the Series

By NICK FLATLEY.

The Braves and Cubs, cooled off and rested by the deluge which erased the third game of the series, were out to wind up their differences today. The Cubs wanted to make a clean sweep, but the Braves had at least one game coming their way. In the other two contests poor Boston pitching made victory safe for the invaders. At least one hurler out of three should have good day.

It was Joe Oeschger's turn, and his most probable opponent appeared to be George Tyler, who once southpawed very successfully for the Tribal outfit. Boston fans are a bit anxious to have a peek at Ty, and get the real dope on his alleged comeback.

The Derry farmer was out of the game all last season with a lame shoulder. He has pitched a few games this year, with fair success. He is not worked very often by Manager Mitchell, who is anxious to keep Ty fresh with the rest of his mound performers.

STAR HOLIDAY CARD FOR LYNN FIGHT FANS

All roads lead to the Casino A. C. Lynn, tomorrow evening, where an all-star card will be the program, consisting of three ten-rounders and two sixes. In one of the tens Mike Crowley, the popular Malden light weight, will clash with Woonsocket Joe Gibbs; in another Jack Savage of Brockton, who gave Johnny Wilson four hard fights, will try and win a decision over Charlie Silvers of Beverly. In the windup Billy Fitzsimons of Chelsea, who just defeated Bobby Josephs, will have his hands full trying to win over Freddy Williams, the Dorchester entry for featherweight honors. The two six-round preliminaries will show local talent, with forty-two rounds of rugged boxing between no champions, but satisfactory performers should furnish a fistic treat for the members.

Department Store League Games Begin Friday

The Department Stores Baseball League will have its opening games Friday at the North Brighton playground.

This league is made up of six of the department stores of the city, namely, R. H. White, C. F. Hovey, A. Shuman, Shepard, Norwell Company, Talbot Company and Butler's.

The schedule calls for three games a week, which will be played at North Brighton playground. All games will start at 5:45 P. M. This makes one more league which has entered the twilight class, which is growing more popular every day.

This is the first time for nearly fifteen years that the stores have had a league. The last attempt was not a success as many of the teams were made up of rangers, who were employed in the store for the special purpose of playing on the ball team. This fault has been done away with by one of the rules of the charter, which eliminates all employes from the team who were not on the payroll before April 15 of this year.

Joseph S. Doyle Heads League

The officers of the league are Joseph S. Doyle, assistant superintendent of R. H. White, president; T. Raftery of A. Shuman Co. vice president, and W. Cleary of Hovey's secretary and treasurer.

Plans are being made to have the winner of the Boston league meet the New York City league champions about Labor Day.

At the annual out-door carnival of the Department Stores of this city in August the teams will all meet. Next Fall the plan for encouraging athletics will be carried on with track teams and basketball teams, each of which will also have a special league formed to promote competition.

The schedule:

R. H. WHITE.

TWO STAR RACES FOR BIKERS

Madonna-Carman and Chandler-Keller in Feature at Revere

Two regular big league races are on the cards for the fans at the new Revere cycle track tonight. In one Ned Chandler, the colored speed star, will have a chance to show just how good he is against Willie Keller, one of the best of the fast field at Newark, while in the second feature event Clarence Carman, fresh from his invasion of Europe, will have it out with Vincent Madonna behind the motors.

The Chandler-Keller match is attracting no little attention from the fans, many of whom declare the colored boy the best of the big field of sprint stars at the beach oval, and attribute his failure to show better to the final sprints of the other riders. Tonight, however, he will have but one man to battle, and the best of the entire entry list will be his opponent.

Carman's recent arrival home, following his great triumphs abroad, quickly brought Madonna to the front as the home champion, a honor which is also claimed by the Jamaica flyer, and tonight's race will really decide who's who in the ranks of the motor paced pedal pushers.

The amateurs and pros will have their regular card of events.

CUBS AND BRAVES PLAY OFF POSTPONED GAME JULY 28

The Braves-Cubs game, postponed because of the heavy rain, will be played off as part of a double-header on July 28, it was announced by Manager Walter E. Hapgood of the Boston Nationals.

HORNSBY HURT; WILL BE OUT FOR SEVERAL DAYS

New York, June 16.—Roger Hornsby, third baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals, was injured in the final game on the Polo Grounds when he was hit in the head by a ball thrown by Shortstop Lavan. Hornsby is expected to be out of the game for several days.

Whelan "Out" Officially

The Harvard Athletic Committee officially accepted the resignation of Dr. Charles Whelan as track supervisor at a meeting held in University Hall.

State College, Pa., June 16.—Penn State defeated the University of California nine, 6 to 3.

Holiday Games Wanted

A game for tomorrow and also for following Saturdays are wanted by the Roxbury Red Sox baseball team. The Colonial Comique Weekly Shoe and the Dramatic Cordage teams have been booked for tomorrow's game, during the day at Roxbury Saldi, No. 20 East Cottage street, Roxbury.

The Adriana of Roxbury wish to meet a fast team for tomorrow. Semi-pro or amateur teams desired. Manager J. Corrigan, Roxbury 8085-W.

The Wanderers of East Boston wish to meet a fast team for tomorrow. Call 3 to 6 P. M. at 61 East Boston 1790.

Owing to a cancellation the Eagle A. C. are without a game for tomorrow. Game with Youngsters of Jamaica Plain, Indiana Athletics or the Aipets of Lynn preferred. Manager Bill Elliott, South Boston 852-W.

The Dorner A. C. of Cambridge desires games for tomorrow with 16-year-old clubs. Manager T. Thompson, No. 79 Norfolk street, Cambridge.

RED SOX TACKLE THE TIGERS

Boston Boys Hope for Better Break Against the Detroit Team

Detroit, June 16.—Against the Tigers, whose pitching isn't so tight and whose batting isn't so terrific, the Red Sox expect to make up the ground they lost against the St. Louis, a series that almost wrecked the Barrow machine. Four games were played and the pitching was crushed for forty-eight runs.

Carl Mildren, idol of the Red Sox fans, cannot remember when their pitching received such a lambasting. Sam Jones, Allen Russell and even Herb Pennock paid the penalty.

But the Tigers apparently do not class with the Browns. At least their pitching has had but one shutout victory for the season and their batting does not know the mighty Ty Cobb, who is on the shelf with an injury, and then, George Sisler is not with the Tigers.

Sisler's batting produced this Tuesday—nine times up, eleven runs, seven singles, four doubles and one home run.

The Red Sox did not show any one with such a stinging punch and until the pitching staff recovers, Barrow cannot expect anything but some more defeats.

KANALY IS GIVEN ST. LOUIS BERTH

Frank M. Kanaly, formerly of Arlington, a well known runner, has been appointed supervisor of army athletics with headquarters at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Kanaly has been coach of athletics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he has done great things in getting athletes of this college into shape.

NEW SHAMROCK READY FOR FIRST TRIAL RACES

New York, June 16—Headed by the steam yacht Victoria, Sir Thomas Lipton's flotilla, including the two Shamrocks, a houseboat and several tugs left City Island today for Sandy Hook, where the first of the tuning up races between the challenger and her racing mate will be staged tomorrow, weather permitting.

Thomas plans to race the Shamrocks nearly every day from now until July 15, when the first of the international series for the America's cup is to be staged.

KIRK NEW HARVARD ASSISTANT MANAGER

Alexander Kirk of Chicago is the new assistant graduating manager and treasurer of the Harvard Athletic Association, succeeding Dr. Paul Withington, who is returning to Honolulu this Summer. Kirk is varsity baseball manager, and graduates from Harvard next week. His selection is considered a good one. Kirk will bring many fine qualities to his new office.

WILSON RISKING TITLE TONIGHT

Middleweight Champion Takes on Angie Ratner in 8-Round Bout at Philadelphia

BY JACK CONWAY

Johnny Wilson will defend his title as world's middleweight champion when he meets Angie Ratner in an eight-round no-decision bout at Philadelphia tonight. Billy Rocap will referee. His task will be an easy one unless a low blow is delivered.

Ratner is one of the world's best middleweights and will give the Charlestown favorite a stirring battle. Wilson could have picked an easier opponent, but he didn't want to leave himself open to being accused of setting a setup. Johnny intends to be a real champion.

Reid and Clark in 12-Round Draw

Pal Reid secured a draw in his twelve-round bout with Jackie Clark at the Armory A. A. show at the Grand Opera House. The decision of Referee Maffie Flaherty was considered a good one by most of the fans. Clark landed the cleaner blows and had the best of the long range boxing, but Reid was the aggressor in virtually every round and scored with some stiff blows to the head and body.

A right-hand blow to the body was Clark's best wallop. He scored with this punch repeatedly and for a time it looked as though the Allentown man would win handily. Then Reid started and about evened up the tussle.

Mickey Fitzsimmons of Chelsea won over Stew Kennedy of Lawrence in the semi-final of eight rounds. Frankie Ryan of South Boston stopped Danny Glynn of Roxbury in two frames, while Red Chapman of Roxbury and Joe Lentine of the South End in six rounds.

Alger and Powers in Tussle at Somerville

George Alger, veteran Cambridge welterweight, will have Dave Powers of Malden as an opponent in a twelve-round bout at the Union Square Club of Somerville tonight. Alger's injured nose is now all right and he says he will put over a victory. Powers has prepared himself carefully for the conflict and is out to win his way back into favor. Just how Malden David is gunning for a tussle with Alger is a matter of opinion that a win over Alger would be a fitting way to start his drive.

Josephs Takes Corbett's Place Against Hayes

Willie Corbett has injured one of his ankles and has been obliged to withdraw from his bout with Jackie Hayes which was booked to be decided at the Coliseum A. A. of Quincy tomorrow night. Manager Goodwin didn't waste any time in signing a suitable substitute. He secured the services of Bobby Josephs, one of the best of our noble featherweights. Hayes and Josephs already met several times. As each of their meetings was crowded with action, it looks as though Quincy fans will witness a lively engagement.

Lawlor Has Chance to Kayo Kloby

Jack Lawlor has a chance of stopping Young Kloby in their twelve-round bout at the Atlas A. A. of Lawrence Saturday afternoon. The Omaha City lightweight is a deadly puncher and will prove whether the Y. M. C. A. champion can assimilate a dose of punishment without hitting the canvas. Johnny Dundee refused to swap blows with Lawlor as he realized that the latter packed too heavy a wallop. Kloby, however, has never been known to sidestep a challenge to trade blows. Consequently there will be plenty of thrills once festivities get under way.

Lawrence Wants to Stage Mat Bout

Lawrence may soon take its place on the wrestling map. Promoters in that city are contemplating staging a bout between Eugene Tremblay, lightweight champion, and the Masked Marvel. The latter recently won a handicap match from the little fodder and believes he would be able to give Lawlor a fast finish contest. Montreal is also bidding for this match, but is apparently going to receive some local opposition.

Jawson and Frissetti in Commercial Bout

Joe Jawson of Milwaukee and Jimmy Frissetti of Brockton battle for twelve rounds in the main bout at the C. A. A. Both boys have appeared in the Hub on several occasions, as death is perfectly confident that they will be seen with the big end of the decision.

In the semi-final Kid Julian of Brockton and Hazel Mann of the West End will meet over the eight-round distance, while Young Smith of Brockton, Tommy Nee of South Boston and John Sanier of the United States Navy and Young McGovern of South Boston will meet in the curtain-raisers.

YACHT TRIAL CALLED OFF

Wind Deserts Skippers at Newport and Resolute and Vanitie Rest Up

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Newport, R. I., June 16.—The ninth meeting of the Resolute and Vanitie has been postponed until tomorrow.

For more than three hours the two sloops striving for the honor of defending the America's Cup waited at anchor for a breeze of sufficient velocity to carry them to the starting mark, but to no avail.

Their crews, following the long-established custom of the sea, whistled for the wind, and even their tenders, the Monitank and Mentank, sent steam to try and discover something in the nature of a breeze further out to sea, but both the crews and the Monitank were unsuccessful, and the cup committee then rendered its decision of postponing the race until tomorrow.

Because of the holiday in Boston it is expected that many yachts and steam craft from the yacht clubs in that vicinity will be on hand to-day and tomorrow's meeting. The series now stands five to three in favor of the Resolute.

BECKETT PROMISES TO FIGHT GIBBONS HERE

London, June 13—Tommy Gibbons, the St. Paul fighter, and his manager, Eddie Kane, will sail for the United States tomorrow on the Adriatic after a short visit here in an effort to arrange matches between Gibbons and Joe Beckett or Bombardier Wells. Beckett refused to meet Gibbons here, but promised the St. Paul boxer the first chance to meet him when he visits America. Beckett will probably sail for the United States in September.

ORIENT HEIGHTS POST TO HOLD TRACK MEET

An open amateur handicap track meet will be held in connection with the field day of Orient Heights Post, the American Legion, at Wood Island Park on July 5. Features of the day will be the mile run for which there will be special prizes. The other events will be the 220, 440 and 880-yard runs. Many of the best athletes in Greater Boston have entered. All events will be handicap. Entries close with Francis A. Neligan, 10 Gladstone street, East Boston, July 1.

Merrimac Golfers Win

Mrs. Wm. Thompson and Mr. W. Dale of the Merrimac Valley Country Club led the field in an open mixed foursome golf match with Haverhill Country Club with a score of 84—8—76.

No Place for Lil' Artha but Jail

According to word from Tia-Juana, Mex., officials of the Department of Justice of the United States are waiting at the border for Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, and when he steps across the line. The new Mexican government has ordered Johnson, who has been a fugitive from justice on a conviction of "white slavery" for eight years, to leave the country. He is an "undesirable" they say, and he has no place to go except the United States, and Jail. For if he fails to leave, willingly, Johnson will be deported. The new government is making a nation-wide drive against undesirables, and hundreds of men "without a country" will be forced to leave.

The Stationary Chinese

A BOOK written more than 1,000 years ago mentions two breeds of poultry still being raised in China, while incubators now used are the same in principle as those employed in Egypt 4,000 years ago.

When a Girl Marries

Story of the Interesting Happenings in Life of Young Married Couple

By Ann Lisle

THE Masons and Harrisons weren't a bit better than simple folk like Carl and Daisy and me—but tradition and training have given them as a heritage what we have to dig out for ourselves. And I, for one, don't always know where to dig.

We were all on excellent terms by the time Pat arrived—and then things took a turn for the even more chummy and cheerful. The three men like each other and my younger brother unreservedly and sincerely—that made for cordiality.

Good Fellowship.

They knew each other well—that made for an easy flow of good-natured banter. Pat handsome, silver-haired Pat, of the daredevil eyes and bitter mouth, turned suddenly tender and sweet and grave whenever he spoke to Phoebe. She adored his manner. And it made Neal very proud. So we were all in a mood to "just love" each other and to feel ready to tell whomsoever it might concern that all was right with the world.

Into our gayety there came a sudden noticeable hush—the air grew still and heavy, and a great zigzag of lightning followed a clap of thunder, and was followed in turn by a sudden pelter-patter of rain.

Pat flung back his gray head and ran his hand across his forehead in the well-remembered gesture.

"Scurry for shelter, girls! We'll join you in a minute."

Phoebe and I obeyed. The men followed in a moment.

"Who says we aren't good company for each other?" Pat asked. "Here we are on the empty hurricane deck, whence all but we have fled. What do you folks say to chartering a seagoing hack and finishing our love feast at my digs?"

"I say great!" said Jim, emphatically. "If my little girl isn't tired or too painfully aware of a certain ankle!"

I hesitated a moment. It seemed to me a particularly tactless thing for us of the clan of Harrison to go to Pat Dalton's home. Surely, this would offend Virginia beyond endurance. But while I hesitated, the adage fulfilled itself and I was lost, for Phoebe cried eagerly:

"Oh, I couldn't bear to have this nice, nice party break up yet. And I'd love to come to your home, Pat! We won't let Anne walk a step, and I can see by her pinky-pink cheeks that she hasn't a hurt in the world."

"Not an ache. Not a desire that doesn't coincide with the plans of our bunch." I said, determined not to be a spoil-sport of a prophet of evil.

All in a Taxi

That settled things. We found a taxi big enough to hold our party, and swept gayly down the slippery, black network of rain-drenched streets.

Pat's apartment, at which we arrived in the course of ten or fifteen minutes, proved to be an odd little place of many small rooms. I would have chosen wide spaces, long vistas and Gothic arches for Pat, so that the little rooms with their gay chintzes puzzled me. It was a very attractive little place, but not at all like Pat. Phoebe stumbled on the cue:

"Oh, Neal, we ought to have a place just like this!" she cried. "So if you have to work nights or take trips I won't be gloomy and frightened. A little place like this won't let you be lonely or cold."

Pat smiled wistfully. And I felt that in common decency I ought to look the other way. I was delighted when Jim's voice rang out briskly:

"What have we here?"

He was standing at an odd sort of desk—an old-fashioned secretaire, all cubbyholes and shelves. He picked up some object and held it behind him. Like a flash Pat was at his side. His eyes darted to a particular spot and then the look of concern that had narrowed them faded and a look of great relief came over his face.

"What did you discover, Jim? If it's any little thing you've taken a fancy to, just 'help' yourself."

"Good!" said Jim, tensely. He held up a little ivory cylinder of quaint wood carvings, then tapped it so the dice fell out. "I won't refuse the boodle—but in the meantime, who's for a game?"

"I'll play you," replied Pat in colorless contrast to his manner when he had gone to see what it was Jim had discovered.

As he crossed to the table where Jim was now sitting, he swept something from the desk and into his pocket. No one else noticed. Phoebe and Neal were absorbed in an inspection of the apartment. Jim was sitting with his shoulders hunched down and his hands gripped into talons as he shook the dice out of the box and studied their combinations and permutations intensely. The old fear swept over me as I perceived how completely the fever for gambling possessed Jim again.

For the moment I forgot Pat and the mysterious something that had swept so stealthily from his desk.

Jim Nervous

"Did you notice something funny last night," asked Jim, the day after our visit to Pat Dalton's apartment.

"About you, our host or the world in general?" I parried.

"About your hubby—and the way he couldn't get up his nerve to let on to Pat that the news of the purchase of the Harrison estate and its transfer to Virginia had reached his ears," replied Jim.

"I never thought of it," I confessed. "I took it for granted that you and Neal had talked it all over with Pat."

"Can't answer for the kid, but I've never let out a peep——"

"Oh, and you're not letting out a peep about a more important subject. That's a way you have, Jim," I replied in irritation and unhappiness that would not down.

"Meaning? Oh—yes, I know. I ought to apologize for the way I fussed about your slippers and didn't show a mortal bit of sympathy for the sprained ankle. Well, that goes without saying. But I'll say it, dear. I was a brute. And when the boy was so darn sweet to Phoebe about the near-pneumonia attack of hers, I was a fool never hurt you like that again, dear. Never willingly." Jim added ruefully, coming over to perch on the arm of my chair and to ruffle up the little curls at the nape of my neck.

"Oh, Jimmie—dear, don't make it so hard for me to lecture you," I begged, nestling my head against his shoulder. "'Cause I have to, dear—whether I like it or not."

"You may fire when ready, Gridley," jested Jim. "Now that you have I done to make the wee wifie ashamed of me." Wasn't I nice to Tommie? Or was I too nice? Go to it. Don't spare my gray hairs."

Jim Is Decided

"Please, Jim." I begged. "You know just as well as I do——"

"Oh, you mean going to Pat's. Now look here, Anne, I'm in wrong with Virginia anyway, but she can't hoke and henpeck me and run the world so that I cut Pat off my visiting list just when I find how all wool and yard wide he is."

"I don't mean going to Pat's. Though I did think that a little ill-advised. I mean—I mean the dice. Your gambling. Oh, Jimmie, if you could see how it gets you, how it distorts your face, how strong, sinewy hands look like talons when you grip that little cup. And you crouch over the table like something sinister. My Jim gone. It almost kills me. It frightens me. It frightens me, Jim!"

Jim buried my face in Jim's shoulder and held myself well in leash to stifle the sobs that threatened to come in spite of me. Jim stiffened and drew away irritably.

"Cut out the sob-sister stuff!" he said, gruffly. "I'm not going to repetition because I shake dice with a good friend now and then. And you needn't paint me in quite such pagan colors. I don't relish such melodramatic hunks!"

"It isn't." I persisted, ill-advisedly. "If you could see yourself you'd know how the fever burns out all the rest you and makes you a caricature of yourself."

Jim got down from the arm of the chair and spoke drily:

"I won't quarrel with you, Anne. But your lack of understanding of this interest of mine strikes me as about as unsympathetic as my failure to howl with grief over that ankle of yours. Don't forget the fifty-fifty stuff that's been making things go smoothly for the past month or so."

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single dan and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, silky, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Solomon Says—

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

WHO is this, my Daughter, who is this that entereth the tabernacle pale and trembling, and emergeth therefrom covered with blushes and pride and confusion?

Who is this that rusheth wildly forth from the house, bearing three grips and a bundle of umbrellas in one arm, and a girl in the other?

Who is this that unwindeth himself from white satin ribbons, taketh down placards, and curseth all bachelors with the curse of fifty?

Lo, it is the JUNE BRIDEGROOM!

Yea, it is HE, the Dreamer of Dreams and Vower of Vows, who seeketh sail upon the Sea of Matrimony, and embarketh upon the Great Voyage of Discovery!

Behold, many things shall he discover, which he doth not now suspect.

Yea, verily, he shall discover that the price of one evening's diversion will pay for a ton of coal, and that the money squandered upon a box of Perfecios would have bought a pair of candlesticks and a potted palm.

He will discover that GOOD chairs are not meant to be sat upon, and that the parlor divan is NO place for a man's feet.

He will discover that not all a woman's hair is attached to her head, and that her hats and frocks do not GROW upon her, but come in flowered boxes with bills affixed.

He shall discover that he hath acquired the right to have his buttons sewed on and his hose darned, but hath lost forever the right to choose his own amusements and rule his own goings and comings and stayings out at night.

He shall discover that, by wearing an overcoat for three seasons, and having his hats blocked and pressed, one may soon be able to afford a new Turkish rug for the drawing-room.

He shall discover that theory is an excellent thing—until it cometh to running an automobile or a woman; but that he who attempts to conquer THESE requireth much practice and the sporting spirit of a gambler.

And lo, my Daughter, when he hath discovered all these things, then shall he make the greatest and most startling discovery of all.

Yea, then shall he discover that he is a MARRIED MAN!

IF MOTHERS ONLY KNEW

Thousands of Children Suffer From Worms and Their Mothers Do Not Know What the Trouble Is.

Signs of worms are: Constipation, sour stomach, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, offensive breath, hard and full belly with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching of the nose, itching of the anus, itching of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, slimy, slimy during sleep, slow fever.

Mrs. M. N. Roberts, 505 Asylum street, Flint, Mich., used Dr. True's Elixir for her little baby girl when she was sick. Mrs. Roberts wrote to Dr. J. F. True & Co., "My little girl is relieved of her worms." And in a later letter wrote: "Baby is fine and I think it was your medicine (Dr. True's Elixir) that helped her." If your child is ill start giving Dr. True's Elixir at once. Buy Dr. True's Elixir at your dealer's at once. Three sizes.

Mrs. Julius Rottenberg will tender an informal reception to her daughter, Miss Viola Josephine, and her fiance, Mr. A. E. Pinanski, and their friends at her home, 8 Abbotsford Street, Roxbury, on Sunday, June 20, 1920, between 3 and 6 p. m. and 8 and 10 p. m.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

WE always loved our domicile and viewed it with much pride, we liked its style, our taste it satisfied. The living room, we always said, was far the best we'd seen, with papered walls of cheerful red and carpet of bright green. On every shelf and every stand were loads of bric-a-brac. We thought we had a restful and a sightly little shack. But now, as 'round the place we glance, we see it's very punk. If we had only had a chance, we'd sell our home for junk. The reason nothing seems the same I'll readily explain. A lady with a mission came to view our poor domain. She had full many a loving cup and many a cross of wax, won dolling horrid homesteads up; her fame was known afar. But when wife brought her out to see the home we loved so well she laughed aloud with gruesome glee, then fainted for a spell. When she could speak, in accents weak she murmured to my wife: "This house is quite the wildest freak I've seen in all my life. But I will tell you what to do. Take all the furniture, the paper and the carpets, too, and give them to the poor. Then take the books and bric-a-brac and feed them to the goat; send pictures, draperies and shades to regions far remote. You need gray walls, a carpet gray and one tall spindling chair. If callers to your house should stray, just let them sit on air. One book upon a shelf's enough, one picture on the wall. This is the real artistic stuff, for which the swells all fall." So if you see a junkman's cart, just send it to our door. We're going in for high, high art, we'll sit upon the floor.

Of No Avail

"I've been reading an article on electricity, William," said William's wife, as she laid down a technical magazine. "And it appears before long we shall be able to get pretty nearly everything we want by just touching a button." "It will never pay here!" said the husband. "You would never be able to get anything that way." "Why not, William?" "Because nothing would ever make you touch a button! Look at my shirt!"

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Beck

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

BECK.

VARIATIONS — Beckett, Becker, Beckman.

RACIAL ORIGIN — Anglo-Saxon, also German.

SOURCE — Geographical, also occupational.

WHILE the family names of Beck, Beckett, Becker and Beckman have become confused through changes in spelling, so that the tracing of one involves the tracing of the others, there are really two sources of the names, different in racial origin and in meaning.

It is safe to assert, however, that if you spell your name Beck or Beckett it probably comes from England, and if it is Becker or Beckman it originated in Germany.

Beck was simply a very old English word for brook. It has become a family name in the same manner that Brooks has. It probably made its first appearance in some such form as "Thomas Ate Beck," or "Thomas at the Beck." It is easy to see how such descriptive phrases early became family names, for they were as naturally applicable to father, son and grandson, through succeeding generations, while the family continued to live in the same place. Beck is also an Anglo-Saxon word; all of which points to a very early use of it as a family name, even if unconsciously.

Becket means a little beck, or a brooklet.

Beckher, however, is of German origin, being the word for baker, though this is betrayed by the vowel "e" rather than the ending "er," which was almost as common a method of denoting occupation in old England as in Germany. The same holds true of Beckman, which, of course, is a shortened form of Beckmann.

The family name of Beck has a particularly beloved significance for Brookline people, due to the pleasant family of Becks who lived for many years in the old Beck mansion at No. 43 Davis avenue, Brookline. Frederick Beck was the owner, a grand old gentleman who made his own money, starting out at eighteen to do it. Though a member of a good colonial family, he was forced to work, first as a clerk, for $50 a year, hours from 7 in the morning to 8 at night. This period of his life Frederick Beck called his "via dolorosa."

As a banker, as a keen business man, as a traveler, a book lover and a savant, Beck is remembered by his hosts of Brookline and Boston friends. His daughter, Katherine Beck Patterson, was loved by all who knew her, even as her father.

Horsewoman, reader, gentlewoman, good mother and good friend, the daughter of Frederick Beck leaves memories behind her which even the razing of the homestead may not efface.

Relieve Your Rheumatism For 25c.

NR does it by improving digestion, assimilation and elimination—the logical way.

NR Today—Relief or No Pay

There are three vital processes of human existence,—the digestion of food, the assimilation of nourishment from it and the elimination of the waste.

Let anything interfere with these processes,—let them be interrupted or improperly carried on, and sickness of some kind follows.

Poor digestion and assimilation means failure to derive full nourishment from food and that in turn often means impoverished blood, weakness, anemia, etc. Poor elimination means a poisoning of waste matter which poisons the body, lowers vitality, decreases the power of resistance to disease and leads to the development of many serious ills.

Rheumatism,—due to some interference with the process of elimination, failure to get rid of certain body poisons,—cannot be expected to yield to any medicine that fails to correct the condition responsible for it. Could any reasonable person expect, to rid himself of rheumatic pain as long as rheumatic poison is allowed to remain in the body.

Think of this, it explains the success of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) in so many cases where other medicines have failed. Thousands are using NR Tablets every day and getting relief. Why pay $5 or $6 for something which, for uncertain things? A 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets), combining nerve tonic, blood purifier, liver regulator and bowel cleanser, may give you exactly the relief and satisfactory benefit or cost you nothing.

And Nature's Remedy is not only for the relief of rheumatism. It improves digestion, tones the liver, regulates the bowels and, as it relieves, improves the blood and cleanses the whole system. You'll feel like a new person when you've taken NR Tablets for a time. You've tried the expensive medicines and doctors, now make the real test. You'll get results that Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) are sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, June 16.—At the cotton market opening prices ranged from 2 points up to 7 off, but covering by Wall street and local interests soon sent them up about 12 points. It is reported the rain is needed in some sections of the belt. A private cable to Finlay states the list was firm at a net gain of about 12 points. Opening prices were: July, 34.80; freed 39.00; July, 37.95; October, 34.80; December, 34.50; January, 33.80; March, 33.50; May, 31.97.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, June 16.—The sub-treasury gained $232,000 from banks on Tuesday, making a cash net gain since Friday of $1,382,000.

RAILS IMPROVE, SUGARS UP

Steels Recede in Second Hour, When Crucible Weakened; Specialties Advance

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, but below the best prices of the morning in most instances. Crucible had lost all its gain. Steels as a class were under pressure. Rails and specialties continued to show the largest gains, few had retained them all. Rails had improved and gains were up. Trading was quiet, first hour transactions totalling about 110,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange ruled higher. Silver advanced a little in London.

Among strongest issues were Barrett, National Aniline, Canadian, Chile Copper, Cuba Cane, Puntas Alegre, Rock Island, Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, International Harvester, International Paper, Mexican Petroleum, Pan-American, Texas Gulf, Pacific and United Fruit. They were up from one to more than five points. The largest gain was 9 points, and the forenoon highest it was up more than seven.

BEGIN ADVANCING AT ONCE.

The market began advancing at once, commencing with moderate gains and after a meeting up steadily for half an hour. The largest gains were made by issues ordinarily termed speculative. Among these ones were Barrett, General Chemical and National Aniline. It is figured that stockholders of the latter will receive substantial benefits from the dividend merger. Vanadium was another leader in the upturn. Crucible, which was the weakest stock on the list yesterday, began with a trifling loss, but showed several points gain within a few minutes. Neither oils, motors nor rails were prominent in the upturn, but as groups all showed early strength. Some buying orders from the outside contributed to the movement, but the bulk of the demand was for trading purposes. Tax payment day passed without event and with the call rate low it is now believed that the money market will be easier for a few weeks at least. Speculation is considerable volume for the first thirty minutes was a rule Liberty Bonds and Victory Notes had a shade gain.

LOOK FOR A DULL MARKET.

Traders as a class expect a dull market now that after the Democrats have nominated their ticket at San Francisco, and there is a chance to compare presidential candidates and platforms. Wall Street is credited still with ability to forecast election results, although it made no great success in that line four years ago. Yesterday was the busiest one of the week in four months. By those who looked backward it was recalled that February was another day of a big rush followed by a hull movement. There is talk now of something of the kind being due in July. Selling of issues that used to be called "standard" is said to be genuine liquidation. There is less confidence on the part of the public that they are going to return to a self-supporting basis. Deferred freight rate advances is causing small investors to lose faith. But the interests have not been liquidating rail holdings. They hold to the belief that if there is no future prosperity for rails there will be none in either textile or industry, both depending upon them.

PRICE OF BAR SILVER IS STILL GOING DOWN

Bar silver declined again yesterday, being off one cent an ounce in New York, where the quotation was 81 cents. In London it declined a half pence to 41d an ounce and the recent recession in that market is ascribed to selling orders from India which had accumulated over the week-end. Silver is still being offered in quantity on the Continent and lower exchange for the white metal are having an adverse influence upon Far Eastern exchange.

It is understood that bear speculators have been selling part of the hoard carried by bazaars in the Indies, and another explanation is that Chinese are now parting with some of the vast amount of silver accumulated within a year.

Anaconda Production

Copper production in May by the Anaconda Company totalled but 9,780,000 pounds, as against 31,500,000 for the corresponding 1919 month. Labor troubles were mainly responsible for the curtailment. The company has shipped to the American Brass Company at Ansonia in a little more than a month two thousands ounce bars from the Anaconda electrolytic plant at Great Falls, Montana, and a third will be started soon.

Dividend Declarations

General American Tank Car Corporation declared dividends of 50 cents on common and $1.87 on preferred, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 15.

Cuba Cane Sugar Company declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent on common and semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on preferred, both payable July 1 to stock of record June 15.

Centennial Candy Company declared a quarterly dividend of 2½, payable July 20 to holders of record July 10.

Utah Power & Light Company declared a quarterly dividend of 1¾, per cent on preferred, payable July 1 to holders of record June 15.

New England Telephone & Telegraph Company declared a quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable June 30 to holders of record June 15.

Maritime Chemical Company declared a quarterly dividend of 2½, payable June 30 to stock of record June 19.

Northern Securities Company declared a dividend of 3 per cent., payable July 10 to stock of record same date.

Corporation Earnings

Gross earning of the Ann Arbor Railroad for 1919 totalled $4,583,969 and established a high record. Gross for 1918 totalled $3,722,-1917, the last previous year of private control, was $3,600,000. Operation for 1919 and 1920 was under operating management of Fred Marquette.

For 1919 Standard Oil of New Jersey reports surplus after charges and taxes of $12,-665,864, equal after preferred dividends to $77.55 a share on common stock. This is after deducting $14,000,000 for 1919 Federal taxes, which the surplus was $48,106,919 or $54.09 a share.

Total shares by the W. H. McElwain Co. during the fiscal year ended with May last exceeded 840,000,000, being 22 per cent. more than for the preceding twelve months. For six months past sales have been running at the rate of more than 950,000,000 per annum.

TRADING QUIET IN BOSTON

Price Changes Small and Market Narrow; Curb Has Dull and Weak Opening

Opening irregular, the Boston market remained with the price movement indefinite all the morning. Trading, in fact, was of about the same volume and character as during the preceding session. It lacked breadth and life. Warren Brothers advanced nearly three points in the first hour. Root & Van Dervoort was another strong issue. Atlas Tack sold a point higher.

Among issues to make fractional gains were Island Creek, Swift & Co., Nat Leather and Mayer-Old Colony.

Both Edison and International Cement declined two points while fractional declines were recorded against American Woolen preferred, National Leather, Libby, Gighearn and Pacific Mills.

North Butte and Isle Royale were opened unchanged and rumors were neglected as a class, although it is stated that French consumers have contracted to buy 14,000,000 pounds of American copper. The price to be paid approximated $22,000,000, if based upon present quotations.

There will be no session of the Boston Stock Exchange tomorrow and in observance of Bunker Hill Day banking institutions will close at 12 o'clock noon.

CURB WEAK AND QUIET.

The Curb began as dull as it has been at the opening for a week or more and the tone at the start was far from strong. The most active issues were Arizona Silver, Boston & Montana and Chinola Mexico. Early price changes were small and but few so-called dollar stocks "came out." Issues to advance at the opening included Denbigh, Boston & Montana and Gulfport. Among weak ones were Daddy, Eureka, Mutual Trust, Silver Reef and Cusiana.

At the end of an hour Arizona Silver was up 5 cents at 55 cents, while Boston & Montana was off 1 cent to 72 cents, Silver Reef 1 cent at 5 cents and Canada Mexico ¼ at 12¾.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES

Thirteen of the cars of ore shipped by Superior & Boston in May averaged 4.2 per cent copper, 1.2 ounces of silver and 1.2 per cent zinc. The thirteen averaged 2.8 per cent. copper and 1.1 ounces of silver. The drift on the sixth level of the Hollywood Copper mine is considered as nearing 13 per cent. copper and ten ounces of silver.

It is reported from Houghton that the Mayflower opening is now in good looking rock in the barging wall of the south crosscut on the 4,000 foot level. Drifting is now under way on the 3,800 foot level. Development is said that at the new rate it will cost the Mayflower $2,000,000 a year for coal to keep going and that for the whole copper mining industry in Michigan will be more than $11,000,000 a year.

The Hibernia shaft is now down 500 feet and will drift with the lode at the 500 foot station, it is said. Sinking on the Nonesuch property in Nevada, near Nevada mine adjoining, at 1,400 feet has proved ore varying in value, the lowest being the 400 foot level.

Hayden, Miller & Miller Co. directors will meet tomorrow for dividend action and it is expected that a quarterly dividend of 2¼ per cent. will be declared.

Directors of Hallgarten & William V. Ellis Inc. include Frederick Strauss, Sydney Barnes, Chichester & Co. They have been connected with the investment business of Hallgarten, Mower & Weeks for many years.

Daly West Mining Co. directors have declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share, payable July 1 to stock of record July 15.

Buy Options On German Marks Good for Six Months

The fact that German money to selling at about one-tenth of its normal value should convince even the most skeptical that purchase now offer a wonderful opportunity for large profits. Exchange experts predict a sharp advance within the next few months.

10,000 Marks Can Be Controlled for $50.00
100,000 Marks Can Be Controlled for $400.00

Buying options limits your risk, as the original cost constitutes your entire liability. The cost of an option involves the use of about one-sixth as much money as would be required to buy marks outright. Should the marks held on option advance to only one-half normal value, the returns on $50.00 would be over $75.00.

Send remittance, stating number of marks you wish to option at above rates. We urge prompt action, as exchange situation rapidly.

Send for explanatory circular.

Mexico in Revolution

—BY—

Vincente Blasco Ibanez

(Copyright by the Foreign Press Service.
III. MEXICO'S SORROW (CONTINUED).

But what I was going to say is this. The presence of the Zapatistas and the Villistas, so long denounced as bandits, even by the very men who used them early in the Revolution, was much less feared by the honest, hard-working citizens of Mexico, than the approach of the government troops.

"And now for the Carranzistas," they would say, as the band of Zapata or Villa retired; and they would begin to weaken at the knees.

"And who were the Carranzistas? They were men like Pablo Gonzalez and Alvaro Obregon!

"Old man" Carranza was way behind, coming from Vera Cruz, with all his cabinet furniture.

Gonzalez and Obregon represented triumphant "Carranzismo."

Genial, lovable chaps, these two old cronies, who, now that Carranza has been put out of the way, ask the world to accept them as two men of the future, two political virginities!

Don Pablo, so deferential toward persons of no pretensions about himself, would summon a group of officers.

HE IS A NUISANCE—KILL HIM.

"Gentlemen, you are a court martial. Put so-and-so on trial and have him shot. He is a nuisance."

Perhaps the said case in question, the court itself would end by asking for the culprit's release.

Then would discordant don Pablo. He would draw his pen through the verdict and say to an adjutant: "Go and get that So-and-So." Mr. So-and-So would be at home, surrounded by family and friends and receiving congratulations on his acquittal. Then the new summons would come. More red-tape to unwind, I suppose," the unlucky man would say. "Perhaps I forgot to sign some paper."

A half hour later he would be in front of the firing-squad.

Ill-humor was the characteristic of all don Pablo's practical jokes.

Obregon, for his part, had a lighter touch. His jests were more expansive, more theatrical. He is something like the Kaiser, in this respect, and doubtless in recognition of spiritual kinship with the man. William II, as Obregon claims, wanted to read the book the Mexican Napoleon had written. The parallel can be pushed farther. Obregon has an amputated arm, the Kaiser has a withered hand. They are both "cracked," as the phrase goes, both fond of sensational speeches, warlike attitudes, and ostentatious military reviews.

OBREGON INSULTS PUBLIC.

On his entry into the capital, Villa's men took a fancy to one of a public meeting to insult the whole population of one place. They took the best of you. Here, citizenss, accept my picket." And he presented a revolver to a "citizeness" on the stage who was wearing a Sam Brown and had been much in evidence during Carranza's men.

The business men in Mexico City won their tribute from the general's eloquence because, like the business men of Guadalajara, Puebla, and other important centres, they had refused to join the revolution.

Obregon, on the contrary, liked to slap shop-keepers in the face, or set them to sweeping the streets. When his humor was most expansive, he would dwell on the Spanish ancestry of the merchant class, and address some vulgar epithet to Spain. Mexican nationalism usually expresses itself in these insults to other nations.

On the rest, he too ordered executions and executions, but as I said, always with a touch of good humor.

One of Obregon's most delightful "parlor stunts" of after-dinner amenities is to narrate the life and miracles of General Benjamin Hill.

"....and then—Hill, you know how Hill is—Hill put his gun between that grocer's eyes, and says 'Charge, Fido,' and the poor fish kneels down to be shot. But Ben doesn't even have to pull the trigger. The fellow has croaked from sheer fright....sheer fright!"

MEASURES THAT WOULD CURE MOST OF THE TROUBLES AND TENDENCIES WHICH DISTRESS AND ALARM US TODAY

(1) To nominate for the Presidency by direct nomination and to elect by popular vote.
(2) To elect the Cabinet officers and make them responsible to Congress.
(3) To deprive the President of the power of patronage; to put all public offices as nearly as possible under Civil Service, and have appointments made by a committee of Congress.
(4) To elect Federal Judges, including the Supreme Court Justices, by popular vote.
(5) To apply the Initiative, the Referendum and the Recall to national matters.

The Story of Mrs. Partington

Do You Know It? It Cheers Discouraged Reformers. And It Means a Third Party This Fall.

Everybody has heard at least the name of Mrs. Partington.

She is the lady that undertook to sweep back the ocean with a mop. Pictures show her near the edge of the seashore, trying to sweep away the ocean from her door, when a great tide threatened the house. Sydney Smith, the English wit, made Mrs. Partington immortal. He was warning the British House of Lords, always opposed to reform and political improvement of any sort, that they would find the demand for reform as much of a problem for their little brains as the Atlantic Ocean was for the mop of Mrs. Partington.

This is the original story:

I do not mean to be disrespectful, but the attempt of the Lords to stop the progress of reform reminds me very forcibly of the great storm of Sidmouth, and of the conduct of the excellent Mrs. Partington on that occasion.

In the Winter of 1824 there set in a great flood upon that town—the tide rose to an incredible height—the waves rushed in upon the houses—and everything was threatened with destruction.

In the midst of this sublime storm, Dame Partington, who lived upon the beach, was seen at the door of her house with mop and pattens, trundling her mop, and squeezing out the sea-water, and vigorously pushing away the Atlantic.

The Atlantic was roused. Mrs. Partington's spirit was up, but I need not tell you that the contest was unequal. The Atlantic Ocean beat Mrs. Partington. She was excellent at a slop or puddle, but she should not have meddled with a tempest.

Be patient, gentlemen. Rest in confidence; you will beat Mrs. Partington.

American citizens that are excited about the Republican nomination for the presidency, and worried about another reactionary nomination that they think is coming in California, may find some comfort in the Mrs. Partington story. Reform really is a rising tide. But, unlike the ocean, it does not rise just so far and go back. It is always rising higher.

The "Dame Partington" lady lives in Wall Street and the neighborhood, and her American name is Mrs. "Big Corporation." This old financial lady thinks that she can easily mop up and squeeze out the rising tide of public discontent. But she is mistaken.

And if the independent and dissatisfied voters will stick together, it is safe to say to them, as Sydney Smith said to the reformers in his day: "Be patient, gentlemen. Rest in confidence; you will beat Mrs. Partington."

The independent vote, in spite of the power of private politics, can control the United States any day it chooses. Next election day ought to be the day chosen.

Federal Supreme Court Must Be LEGALLY Changed

Three years ago the Congress passed a law giving to the several States the right to enact compensation laws covering workers injured in maritime employment.

Under this grant of authority the New York State Industrial Commission has been handling an average of 12,000 claims a year for compensation for injuries sustained on ships and docks—the greater proportion due to injuries at sea.

On May 17 last the United States Supreme Court, dividing five to four, Justices Holmes, Pitney, Brandeis and Clarke dissenting, ruled that the Congress had no authority under the Constitution to delegate its power over admiralty matters.

The majority opinion maintained that the very purpose of the founders in vesting this power in the Congress—namely, to insure uniformity of control—would be defeated by delegating the power to the States.

The Congress adjourned without action, and since the State can no longer act, injured workers on ships or docks are left without redress.

The Industrial Commission in New York is studying the Supreme Court's opinion to see if it forbids exercise of State jurisdiction over accidents happening on land. If there is a possible way, the commission will continue to protect dock workers, but the decision leaves sailors helpless until the Congress itself acts.

To the layman the court's majority opinion seems needlessly, even cruelly, legalistic. The chief water fronting States have in successful operation adequate machinery to administer maritime compensation; and the Congress, in empowering them to use it, saved both expense and time. If the Congress may delegate, to a commission of its own creation, administration of this power, we find it difficult to perceive why delegation to acceptable State commissions should violate the spirit of the Constitution. Certainly it injured no public right, but on the contrary was in the public interest.

However, the court's decision controls. Congress will have to heed it, but early in its next session it should set up its own compensation machinery, if possible with retroactive power, so that the thousands of sailors and longshoremen who are now at the mercy or chance may have due, if belated, protection.

Labor is asking that the Supreme Court's power to annul acts of the Congress be itself annulled. Recent decisions of that court in several cases by a 5 to 4 vote or a 4 to 3 vote, with the majority supporting privilege and plutocracy on technical, legal grounds, have greatly increased the number of people who desire to find a way to establish social justice over legal justice.

As Lincoln said of that court's pro-slavery Dred Scott decision: "It is the law; we must obey it. We cannot change the law, BUT WE CAN CHANGE THE JUDGES."

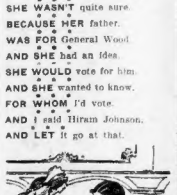
COMING HOME.
FROM THE Chicago convention,
I HAD a lower.
AND THEY'D sold the upper,
TO A charming young woman,
AND I had to trade,
AND GIVE her the lower,
WHICH IN hot weather,
IS ALWAYS hotter,
THAN IS the upper,
AND ANYWAY,
SHE WANTED to know,
IF I'D been to Chicago,
AND TO the convention,
AND I said I had,
AND SHE was sorry,
SHE HADN'T been there,
BECAUSE SHE'D read about it,
AND WAS quite sure,
IT WAS very exciting,
AND SHE wanted to know,
IF ALL of the delegates,
TO THE Chicago convention,
WENT RIGHT from Chicago,
TO SAN Francisco,
AND I was puzzled,
AND WANTED to know,
JUST WHAT she meant,
AND SHE said she had read,
THERE WAS a second convention,
AND SHE supposed,
THE SAME delegates,
WENT TO both of them,
AND I tried to explain,
AND SHE was interested,
AND LISTENED closely,
AND KEPT repeating,
"HOW SILLY of me,
THAT I didn't know better,"
AND WHEN I said something,
ABOUT THE Vice-Presidents,
SHE PIPED up sweetly,
"AND WHAT will happen,
"TO MR. Fairbanks?"
AND OF course I said,
"TO MR. Who?"
AND OF course she said,
"TO MR. Fairbanks,
"HE'S BEEN Vice-President,
"FOR SUCH a long time"
AND I wanted to tell her,
ABOUT MR. Marshall,
AND THAT Mr. Fairbanks,
HAD CEASED to be,
BUT I hadn't the heart,
AND WE dropped the subject,
AND TOOK up the discussion,
OF WOMAN suffrage,
AND SHE'LL vote next Fall,
FOR THE very first time,
AND SHE thinks it grand,
AND WHEN I asked her,
IF SHE'D vote for Harding,
SHE WASN'T quite sure,
BECAUSE HER father,
WAS FOR General Wood
AND SHE had an idea,
SHE WOULD vote for him,
AND SHE wanted to know,
FOR WHOM I'd vote,
AND I said Hiram Johnson,
AND LET it go at that.



"I THANK you."

Letters to the Editor

Russian Trade

Editor Boston American:

I wish to commend the Boston American, as well as its editor, for continuously advocating, in its editorials, a liberal policy toward Russia, which, if only carried out, would lead to a friendly reconciliation between America and Russia.

I wish to state that it is against America's interest, against America's tradition, to stay aloof and watch how England and many other countries capture the "Russian Trade Markets," one by one, especially when Russia would be more than glad to award them to us.

England, with the coming to London of Mr. Krassin, the Russian trade representative, will eventually make some kind of an agreement with Soviet Russia—that is, at least, a commercial intercourse will be established between them. Italy will not stand aloof—those knowing the existing conditions in Italy will also know the reason why. And the like could be said of the smaller neutral countries. How France will act is, in the meantime, very hard to foretell. We could, however, assume that she will not remain alone, and will have to act as the rest. But what will be America's position, and how does America state her position in the present conference held at London with Gregory Krassin, trade representative of Soviet Russia?

Logically President Wilson ought to, at least, support England, if he had not himself already forced the European statesmen to come together and frame some form of an agreement with Russia. But, unfortunately, President Wilson is still against trade with the Soviets, and this is incomprehensible. A statement on his part would, I believe, clear up a little, and might answer the question why? A. B.

Worm Will Turn

Editor Boston American:

What has this administration done? It has put up sugar so it all goes to candy and soft drinks and near beer. It has stimulated crime, raised taxes to the limit, and caused unrest everywhere. A handful of men have no right to tell a nation what it shall eat and drink. Johnson with a third party could sweep the country. The worm will turn some day. I am a descendant of the Pilgrims, but have no use for the rulers of today.

JOHN ANDERSON.

INKLINGS AND THINKLINGS

BRAVEST DEED WE EVER KNEW.

No, gentle readers, we're not talking about the girl. It's the man. Any fellow game enough to marry a girl who thinks nothing of booting a bovine beezer—

Sure. Three minutes repeating a number; half a minute talking to wrong number, and a half a minute asking for your nickel back. (Without getting it, of course.)

Chance for English Sentiment

It Shall Have Its Say, and You Will Enjoy It

In reporting the opening of the Republican Convention, A. Brisbane, opposed to League of Nations nonsense, glad to observe that it was deader than Rameses, remarked that in the convention flags there appeared as yet "no trace of the Union Jack."

That was what you might call "allegorical," for there won't EVER be any such trace. In letting the Union Jack stand for the whole League of Nations the allegory complimented England.

Nobody knows better than the educated Englishman that his Empire IS the League of Nations. Other countries are simply the fringe on the ermine cloak.

Old England, when the war dust settled, had accumulated one more great Empire taken from Germany's colonies, and, satisfied for the moment, she said to the nations of the world, "Friends, I couldn't eat another thing. Let's all get together in a league and help me keep down what I have swallowed!"

What England HAS is her business and that of the Allies. This country simply declines to enlist as night and day watchman to help old Father keep the Rhinegold.

The other day Mr. Bottomley, excepting Northcliffe, most powerful newspaper man in England, said he thought it would soon be necessary for England to fight and whip the United States (again?). Nobody in America objected to that. It was only Mr. Bottomley's opinion, and in a friendly way he was referred to 1776.

It is all right for Mr. Bottomley, being ENGLISH, to say what he thinks about America, but it is all wrong, apparently, for an American editor to so much as peep about England. He must not even say that he can't understand why the United States should become John Bull's night watchman.

To know how a typical Englishman feels on that subject read extracts from the Western British American, published in the Pontiac Building, Chicago, by Mr. James C. McNally. (Where, in Ireland, does he get the McNally?)

As you read you realize that the Englishman, having attended so long to the business of the world, is forgetting how to mind his own business.

You will particularly enjoy the British American's statement that the time is coming "when every important American gathering will meet under the folds of (at least) two flags, the Stars and Stripes and the British flag."

Can you imagine Mr. Bottomley's face if it were suggested that every important gathering in England would one day be held under the American flag?

Read now from the precious English editorial, published by the Western British American, in the city of Chicago:

(From the British American)

"NO UNION JACK"

"No Union Jack" appears in the decorative scheme at the Republican convention, records Arthur Brisbane, the Hearst Press keynoter. And this fact puts him in good humor with the political rally from the start. In recent years the British flag has become an object of fierce disgust to this ready-writer and his boss.

The League of Nations fight in the Hearst papers centres on Britain, of course. If John Bull were out of that pact, it would cease to be such a bone of contention.

This is well shown by Brisbane's first reaction on glancing over the picturesque convention hall, and noting down his impressions of the first day's session. "No Union Jack." Nothing looms so large to the myopic eye of this eccentric-headed sensationalist as the utter absence of Britain's national colors.

WE ARE EMPHASIZING THE POINT HERE, BECAUSE IT SUGGESTS TO US THE TIME, SURELY COMING, WHEN EVERY IMPORTANT AMERICAN GATHERING WILL MEET UNDER THE FOLDS OF (AT LEAST) TWO FLAGS—THE STARS AND STRIPES, AND THE ONE THAT BRISBANE'S BIGOTRY MAKES HIM LOATHE. We know that chaos and universal disaster await the world unless the nations come together.

The Sinn Fein and pro-German American can postpone the hour of British-American unity and concord, but that hour is certainly coming, if sanity is to rule on both sides of the ocean. And when it does come, the convention reporter of the future will not chronicle approvingly the absence of the Union Jack. He will burst into enthusiasm as he describes its vivid folds intertwined with those of the Star-Spangled banner.

Don't laugh at those sweet last lines—they are written in solemn earnest.

"Brisbane's bigotry" does not make him "loathe the British flag." Mr. McNally is mistaken. The scientist says truly that what we call dirt is "matter out of place." That definition would fit the British flag floating over "every important American gathering."

The British flag IN ITS OWN PLACE is hated only by those at war with England, as are the Irish, or that, like the Egyptians, WOULD go to war, but realize they haven't the strength or courage.

The flag of England, so eloquently described by Kipling, chasing Esquimaux under the cold Northern Star, or grabbing diamond mines in the sweltering African home of the tse-tse fly, is deeply admired by all that like efficiency, persistency and a power to dominate lasting through centuries.

Doubtless many brown, yellow and black races, hoisting the Union Jack at "every important gathering," are glad to see it flutter.

We in this country wish the Union Jack well, wherever people are willing to have it officially. But we are NOT willing.

We shall take our chances on Mr. McNally's "chaos and universal disaster that await the world unless the nations come together."

That last coming together cost this country ten billions of dollars, hastily borrowed by old England and her friends, and thirty or forty billions largely squandered here at home. We couldn't AFFORD to do that too often. We want time to think about it, and shall postpone hoisting the Union Jack "at every important American gathering."

Mr. McNally and the Union Jack will observe that the Republican party, which occasionally runs this country, has also concluded that the Union Jack League of Nations will have to wait awhile.

The Hearst newspapers were able to help along that consummation by a little judicious propaganda at Chicago in the last few days, and they find in the fact cause for satisfaction.

To the American it does seem that AMERICAN newspapers should be allowed to indulge in propaganda in AMERICAN cities, especially as this country, with good nature, allows propaganda by the Western British American, here in the United States.

It WOULD be better for England if the United States should enlist in the international police force of the British Empire, sometimes called the League of Nations.

But so far as THIS country is concerned, if and when, borrowing Mr. McNally's words, "the nations come together," the United States will do its coming together outside the stomach of the British Empire.
